WAR UNLIKELY AT PRESENT, SAYS BYRNES

U. S. State Secretary Adds to Peace Hopes By Echo of Stalin Statement.

PARIS —(AP)— Secretary of State James F. Byrnes declared today that "the conflict of viewpoints among the allies" is serious, but he echoed a recent statement by Prime Minister Stalin that there is no immediate danger of war.

Byrnes spoke at a luncheon of the American club in Paris.

"After every great war which has been won by the combined efforts of many nations, there has been a conflict among the allies in the making of peace," Byrnes said in his prepared address. "It would be folly to deny the seriousness of the conflict in viewpoints among the allies after this war.

"To ignore that conflict or minimize its seriousness will not solve the conflict nor help us along the road to peace.

"To exaggerate that conflict and its seriousness, on the other hand, only makes more difficult the resolution of the conflict.

Agrees With Stalin.

"I concur most heartily in the view recently expressed by Generalissimo Stalin that there is no immediate danger of war. I hope that his statement will put an end to the unwarranted charges that any nation or group of nations is seeking to encircle the Soviet nation, or that the responsible leaders of the Soviet Union so believe."

He added the hope that Stalin's words would dispel "the unwarranted charges that the United States is seeking to use its possession of the atomic bomb as a threat of force against the Soviet Union."

However, Byrnes said, American foreign policy will continue to follow a strong line.

"Just because war is not now imminent, we must take the greatest care not to plant the seeds of a future war."

The secretary declared his belief that nobody wants war today, but he said decrying it is not enough.

Explains U. S. Policy.

The major portion of his speech was devoted to his views on the future control of Germany. He, amplified in some respects his recent speech at Stuttgart and the 40-year treaty that he proposed last spring for keeping Germany disarmed and demilitarized.

The United States, he said, "is firmly opposed to a struggle for the control of Germany which would again give Germany the power to divide and conquer."

For that reason, he continued, he proposed the 40-year treaty among the four major powers, a pact which could be renewed according to the necessities of peace and security at the time when it expired.

This plan, he said, would insure that "the Ruhr could never become the arsenal of Germany or the arsenal of Europe."

Divorces Drop As Marriages Near Top Mark

Requests for divorces, annulments and alimony payments, which reached an all-time monthly high of 85 last January, last month totaled only slightly more than half that number, or 45, common pleas court records showed today.

In direct contrast, the 95 marriage licenses granted during September were only 22 below the all-time peak of 117 granted in June. September's marriage license total was the fourth highest in the history of probate court.

It brings to 795 the number of marriage licenses granted to date this year. The total is 110 more than in all of 1945 and not far short of double the amount issued (471) up to Sept. 30 in 1945.

The 45 petitions for divorces, annulments or alimony payments filed in September represented a drop of three from the August total, a decline of six from those filed in September, 1945, and the lowest monthly total so far this year.

CONTACT LOLOS

SHANGHAI—(U.P.)—The military party seeking five or more U. S. airmen reportedly held captive by fierce Lolo tribesmen have arrived at Hsichang and set up a liaison outpost on the Lololand border, it was announced today.

Food Outlook Darkens As Prices Rise

Eggs Hit 79 Cents, Butter 98

Mrs. Mansfield's grocery problem became increasingly dark today.

Butter sold as high as 98 cents a pound—when it was available.

Eggs hit a high of 79 cents per dozen in a seasonal scarcity.

Butchers virtually forgot what red meat looks like.

And Mrs. Housewife, finding her grocery dollars rapidly shrinking as prices rose higher, also hunted in vain for margarine, lard and other shortenings along with soap and toilet tissues.

PACKING PLANT PLANS PART-TIME OPERATION

Adding to the threat of a lengthened meat famine, the W. A. Kearns Packing company, largest of the city's wholesale suppliers of meat, announced intentions to close down part time.

R. D. Samsel, bookkeeper, said company officials were considering closing in the near future.

"We get just about enough meat to take care of two per cent of our business," Samsel said. "We're practically closed down now."

"For the past month we've been hoping that ceilings on meat would be raised so that meat would start coming into the city, but it doesn't look like they're going to do anything about it."

Butcher Laid Off.

One grocer said he had laid off the butcher in his meat department. Another said he received only $15 worth of cold meat last week compared with the usual $400 to $500 worth of fresh meat he usually purchased in a week.

The Third street market, downtown mecca for shoppers, took on a ghostly appearance as housewives wandered from stall to stall seeking food for the family table.

Many butchers said they've kept their doors closed two or three days a week to stock up fish and chickens for the weekend trade.

Lard Disappears.

Grocers said no lard had been delivered since OPA controls re-

INSPIRATION FOR ANY FOOTBALL TEAM would be this quintet of Madison high school beauties. And an inspiration is what they hope to be when they reign over the homecoming festivities Oct. 11 as the Madison Rams meet Loudonville's gridsters. Headed by Queen Donna Beer, center, the queen's court was elected by popular vote at the high school last Thursday. All five girls are seniors. Left to right are Joy Sauder, Lucille Berry, Miss Beer, Betty Harris and Barbara Keipp. Queen Donna, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Beer, Osbun road, Mansfield, R. D. 2, will receive her crown from Gloria Tucker, last year's Madison queen at the homecoming game. (News-Journal staff photo).

Meat's Too Precious To Lose

CHARDON — (INS) — Mrs. Wilford Fitch, slight 122-pound woman of nearby Montville, was hailed today as a heroine of the meat shortage.

A sow weighing 350 pounds fell into a 20-foot well on the Fitch farm. There being no one else around, Mrs. Fitch climbed down into the well and tied a rope to the porker to keep her afloat until help could be summoned.

When a truck from a neighboring garage arrived, Mrs. Fitch proceeded to descend into the well again to attach a chain to the floundering sow. Mrs. Fitch's only comment: "I couldn't let all that meat get away."

FUNDS RUN LOW, SO ADC CHECKS ARE DELAYED

Allocations to 247 Needy Children in County Go Out 2 Days Late.

Promised an allocation of state and federal funds, Richland county's aid to dependent children program today was distributing two days late its benefit payment checks to the families of some 247 needy children.

The ADC checks are usually paid to the families on the first day of each month, but a cash balance of only $4,100 in the ADC account prohibited 100-per cent payments on October's total payroll of $7,238, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe reported.

"I couldn't issue the checks for $7,233 with only $4,100 to cover them for the month", Wolfe said. "So I called the division of business administration of the Ohio department of public welfare and told them the story. One of their auditors explained we would receive $8,504 in matching state and federal funds before the month is over. That was enough to cover the October payroll and the checks are going out today," Wolfe said.

Ask Fund Transfer.

The ABC program has been in financial trouble this year because of depleted funds. In July the first attempt to obtain a transfer of some $7,000 from the public utilities excise tax fund to ADC was made.

Several weeks ago Probate Judge S. H. Cramer, administrator of the program, requested the commissioners begin proceedings to obtain common pleas court approval of the transfer. Such approval, both of the court and the state board of tax appeals, was deemed necessary because the utilities tax was earmarked by the legislature for use only in direct relief.

Today County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz reported he had received approval of the board of tax appeals and that the board's journal entry and the commissioners' petition to the court were filed with the court this morning.

The hearing on the proposal has been set for Oct. 21, Lutz said.

If Common Pleas Judge G. E Kalbfleisch approves the transfer, ADC should get the additional $7,000 in a short time since the county commissioners have already indicated their willingness to make the transfer if the court approves it.

PLANE DEATH TOLL HIGHEST IN HISTORY

Passengers Include Wives and Children of American Service Men.

STEPHENVILLE, Nfld.—(U.P.) — A four-engine trans-Atlantic airliner exploded against a rocky hillside 12 miles east of here early today, and a ground rescue party which reached the scene five hours later indicated that all the 39 persons aboard had been killed.

Only visual communication with the ground party had been established, but pilots flying over the ruined plane said their hand signals indicated none had survived.

It was the worst tragedy in the history of commercial aviation, and most of those aboard the American Overseas Airlines DC-4 were Americans, a number of them wives and children of Americans in Germany, who were flying to join their men.

* * *

Plane Refueled.

The plane, enroute from New York to Berlin, had landed to refuel at Harmon Field here, because Gander, Nfld., 160 miles away, was weathered in. Gander was the scene just two weeks ago yesterday of the crash of a Sabena (Belgian) airlines plane in which 27 died. Capt. James Johnson of Albany, N. Y., in charge of Public Relations office of the Air-Transport Command here said the Harmon Field tower crew and others watched the big plane make a normal takeoff, under a 5,000-foot ceiling, just before 3:30 a. m.

Then they watched in horror as it plunged into the rocky hillside, only 100 feet below the crest of a 1,900-foot elevation, 12 miles from the field.

The plane exploded, Johnson said, and flames shot into the sky.

* * *

Cause Unexplained.

There was no way to tell, Johnson said, why the plane failed to gain enough altitude to clear the hill. He said the weather was clear enough so that the pilot's vision could not have been obscured.

Ground rescue parties set out at once to fight their way through the wooded Muskeg terrain, typical rough Newfoundland country, to the crashed plane.

One party reached it at about 9:30 a. m., just five hours after the crash, and it was then that air observers concluded, from their signals, that none of the 28 adult passengers, three babies, and eight crewmen had survived.

Labor Shortage Slows Home Building in City

COMMERCIAL JOBS HIT LESS

'Under Table' Payments to Workers Reported.

By ART ANDERSON

It isn't only the scarcity of materials, it also is a scarcity of willing hands that is slowing the building of homes in Mansfield.

Leaders of building trades union confided today that there are more carpenters, bricklayers and plumbers engaged in commercial building than in home construction. And this notwithstanding that the need for new houses is the greatest in the city's history.

Contractors were a bit more specific. Although declining to be quoted by name, they asserted that higher wages (at least, higher take-home pay) had steered many a carpenter and bricklayer into commercial building.

* * *

Pay Under Table.

There's such a thing, say some contractors, as paying "under the table" to induce workers to leave a job for another.

That, they say, is possible in commercial building. The reason? Because most commercial construction is done on a cost-plus basis and, if more money is needed to hire the number of men needed, the contractor merely adds it to his costs.

Not so, they say, of the builder of small homes. He must draw plans for an $8,000 house and hold his costs down sharply to keep them from skyrocketing to a point where he would have to ask $10,000 for the house. He'd run into too much buyer resistance if the costs ran up too much.

One of the hard-hit projects is Vetsville. James L. Zimmerman, as late as yesterday, reported at least 25 more carpenters and six laborers needed there if the 75-unit housing project for veterans is to be completed by Thanksgiving. It already is weeks behind the hoped-for opening date.

* * *

Figures Not Given.

In Akron, it is reported that 90 per cent of the building tradesmen are engaged in commercial construction.

Mansfield labor leaders wouldn't even hint of such a high percentage here. They would confide only that there are more laborers engaged on commercial construction than in home building.

Contractors who reported men leaving them even though they were paying the top wages authorized by the wage stabilization board say some of the men are going into other areas where the wage scale is higher or the pay in the labor black market is attractive.

* * *

Little Chance To Improve.

There appears to be little chance of this situation improving in the near future, home building contractors say. The situation is pretty much the same all over the country.

One home building contractor reported that he was still working on houses that he started six months ago. Under normal conditions they would have been completed in half that time.

CITY READY TO LET CONTRACT

Mayor Says Action on Lake Bid Due Tomorrow.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn said today that the contract for the construction of the Clear Fork reservoir dam probably will be let tomorrow.

He said that he has not yet signed the $466,954 dam appropriation voted by council Tuesday because he wants to give it "further study."

The mayor said he had found no reason for refusing to sign the measure, adding that "because of the size of the fund I want to look it over carefully."

Lowest bid for the contract was $424,000, submitted by Roger J. Au, Mansfield contractor. The bid was twice as much as the city originally thought it would have to pay and $124,000 higher than the most recent estimate.

Next lowest bid was submitted by John Hill, at $464,000. The council-voted appropriation was set to cover both low bids.

Over-all cost of the reservoir project is expected to reach $1,000,000.

Ask Federal Funds For Building at New Port

City officials today were to discuss with a Civil Aeronautics Authority official the possibility of the government helping to finance construction of an administration building at Mansfield's new airport.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn said he and Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow and City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner would meet with CAA Airport Engineer E. H. Scofield in Columbus.

Vaughn said he understood there is a federal bill which would permit the city to apply for financial aid in the construction of an administration building and possibly other structures.

Meanwhile, a county-wide program was underway today to enroll former army flying officers in a reserve officers' group. It is sponsored by the local Air Force association and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Army Air Force has promised to send planes to the airport for use of the reserve on a temporary basis with the aim of establishing a permanent unit here.

FROST LETS UP

Mansfield Area Escapes as Mercury Rises.

Heavy frost forecast for last night failed to materialize, and farmers and gardeners breathed easier today as the weatherman predicted warmer weather for the rest of the week.

The mercury fell to 48 in Mansfield last night, but it was rising rapidly today. The forecast promised fair and warmer for tonight with increasing cloudiness and rising temperature tomorrow.

WAGES HIKED

Shelby Air Depot Employes Get 10 Per Cent Raise.

An approximate 10 per cent wage increase for all ungraded employes of the Parsel Air Supply depot at Shelby and its Marion branch has been authorized, effective Sunday, Lt. Colonel S. H Raymond, commanding officer, announced today.

The wage boost, ranging from 8 to 14 cents per hour per employe, will average about $5,000 per month in additional costs to the depot, it was said.

Based upon recent wage surveys in these localities, the increase will affect the pay of some 500 workers at Shelby and 50 at the Marion branch, Col. Raymond said.

3 NAZIS ELUDE GERMAN ARREST

U. S. Protects Schacht, Von Papen and Fritzsche.

NUERNBERG—(U.P.)—German civil authorities and the American military government agreed today to give Franz Von Papen, Hjalmar Schacht, and Hans Fritzsche safe passage to the British zone without threat of German arrest.

Nuernberg de-Nazification officials had ordered the three men arrested as former Nazis. One hundred policemen had surrounded the palace of justice waiting for them to come out. The police were withdrawn on directions of the American military government.

The arrest order remained in effect, however, and the three acquitted Nuernberg defendants may spend another night in their chosen sanctuary—the Nuernberg jail.

Schacht said earlier that he was not leaving the courthouse, partly because of the police outside and "besides it's safe and cheaper in here."

The German police chief said the directive to withdraw his men came from "higher American military authorities."

Arrangements had not been completed for guaranteeing the three men safe entrance into the British zone. A U. S. military escort presumably will be required, as well as a promise to keep the Germans from carrying out the arrests.

Select Jurors For Fraud Case

SPRINGFIELD — (U.P.) — A 13-member jury of eight women and five men was chosen to hear opening arguments today in the trial of Burleigh Woodruff, former Champaign county deputy treasurer.

Woodruff, charged with embezzling $10,000 of Champaign county funds and altering public records, is being tried in Clark county common pleas court at Springfield.

Noted Observer of Interracial Affairs Added to N-J Columnists

Another noted writer is being added to the growing list of contributors to the News-Journal column.

Beginning Sunday, Walter White, oustanding American Negro community leader and representative of the interracial movement in the United States, will offer a once-weekly column.

The addition of White's column is in line with the desire of the News-Journal management steadily to make more all-inclusive the features offered to readers.

Born in Atlanta, Ga., July 1, 1893, White lived in the south until 1918 when he became executive officer of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. As its executive secretary, he represents a membership of 520,000 Americans of Negro ancestry.

WALTER WHITE

White is a rare personality. He has fought hard for the cause in which he belives, and he yet retains the mellow perspective of a philosopher. His friends and foes are legion among Americans of all races, but none will deny his stature as the foremost leader of his people.

A graduate of Atlanta university, White has also done post-graduate work in economics and sociology in the College of the City of New York. He holds honorary Doctor of Laws, degrees from Harvard university and Atlanta university.

He has taken the leadership in the fight against lynching and for the enactment of legislation against this evil.

On July 2, 1937, he was awarded the 23rd Spingarn medal, the award given annually to the outstanding Negro of the year.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — State Liquor Director Robert M. Sohngen increased today the amount of liquor Ohioans may purchase under the state's rationing plan.

He did this by cutting the next ration period to two weeks. The last period was for three-weeks duration. The new period begins Monday, Oct. 7, and continues through Saturday, Oct. 19.

SILO COLLAPSES

BACKS PROPOSAL

Commission Adopts Trieste Compromise Plan.

PARIS —(INS)— The Italian political and territorial commission at the Paris peace conference today adopted, by a vote of 14 to six, an American-backed French proposal for governing the free territory of Trieste.

The decision, adopted by a two-thirds majority of the commission, marked a clear-cut victory of western powers over the Soviet bloc of nations which had fought first to delay a decision and then to turn the entire question back to the Big Four council of foreign ministers.

NAVY BUILDING PACIFIC POWER

New Policy Calls For Strong Aleutian, Guam Bases.

PEARL HARBOR—(U.P.)—A new U. S. Navy policy in the Pacific calling for a strong Aleutian base near Siberia and extension of its outpost 3,000 miles westward to Guam was announced today.

The policy was made public at a press conference by Adm. John H. Towers, commander of the Pacific fleet, who conferred only Monday with President Truman and high navy officials in Washington.

Towers declared that Guam, 8,318 miles west of Pearl Harbor, would be turned into an outpost as strategically important as this Hawaii naval base —long the symbol of U. S. Navy might in the Pacific.

The admiral said the new Pacific policy would be to concentrate permanent naval installations in Alaska, the Aleutians, Hawaii and in the Marianas, which includes Guam.

This would include permanent facilities for surface warships as well as navy air bases.

The navy, the admiral stated, already has begun its program of building up Guam's permanent installations.

Towers said he talked with Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, while in Washington, and that Nimitz agreed with his views on the new alignment of navy power in the Pacific.

CHICAGO —(UP)— A committee of noted educators headed by Chancellor Robert M Hutchins of the University of Chicago is drafting plans for a constitution for world government

The committee, with headquarters at Chicago, plans to hold monthly meetings until the draft of the constitution is complete, expected to require another year

Chancellor Hutchins, in a recent address to faculty members at Chicago said he did not propose instant adoption of the constitution by present world states

It would probably be a calamity if any constitution drafted now were to be adopted," he said. "But since we must work toward world government or perish, we ought at once to begin trying to find out what kind of world government we ought to work toward."

This fall the educators will publish a bulletin explaining the committee's work. They also intend organization of an advisory council of 50 members, who will be invited to the group's first convention, where basic issues on the proposed constitution will be discussed

Besides Hutchins, other noted scholars drawing the blueprint for world government include Rex Tugwell, professor of political science at Chicago and former governor-general of Puerto Rico; Charles H McIlwain, professor emeritus of the science of government at Harvard, Harold Innis, head of the department of political economy at the University of Toronto and James McCauley Landis, former dean of the Harvard Law School

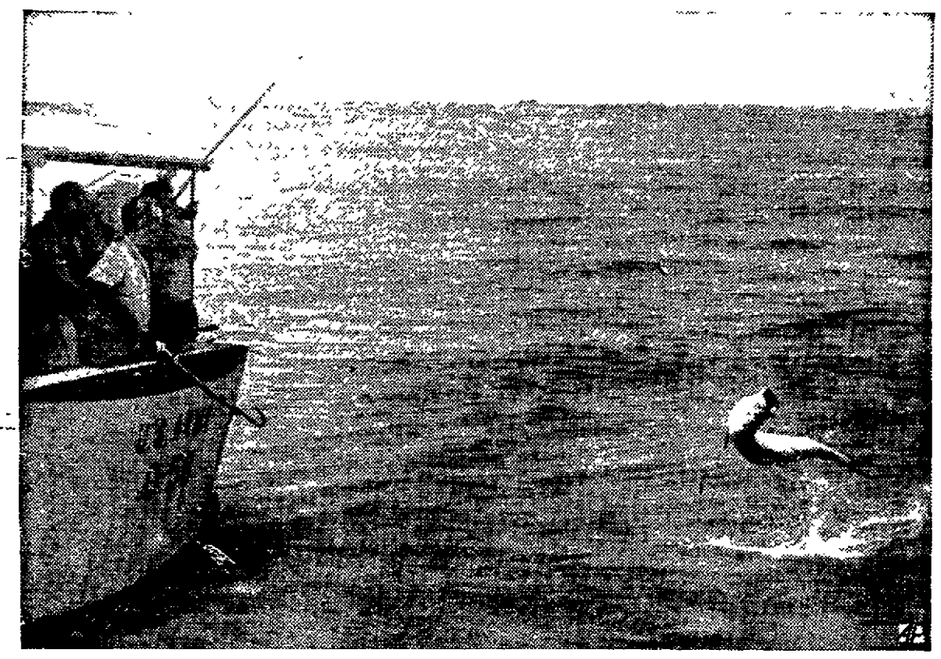
HOHENZOLLERN CASTLE —Stripped of the tracts surrounding it by the land reforms in Germany, the 80-room castle of Crown Prince Wilhelm, son of the late Kaiser, crowns a hill five miles from Heckingen. He finds it too big to live in and occupies a rented villa.



FIGHTING TARPON — A tarpon leaps from the waters as it is reeled in by Mayor C. W. Leeman of Omaha, Neb., during a fishing trip at the mouth of the Mississippi below New Orleans. Mayor Chep Morrison of New Orleans was host to a group of visiting city executives.

SCALING GLACIER — Members of the Alpine Club of Canada skirt a deep crevasse as they near the peak of the Bugaboo glacier in the Purcell range of British Columbia. Two hundred mountaineers gathered for the first meeting of the club since the war ended.

MORGAN LINE — Pfc. A. Akiyama (left), Clovis, Calif., and Pfc. John R. Ishu, Denver, guard an American outpost on the Isonzo River at Sago in Venezia Giulia. Draft World State Plan

CHICAGO —(UP)— A committee of noted educators headed by Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago is drafting plans for a constitution for world government

The committee, with headquarters at Chicago, plans to hold monthly meetings until the draft of the constitution is complete, expected to require another year

Chancellor Hutchins, in a recent address to faculty members at Chicago said he did not propose instant adoption of the constitution by present world states

"It would probably be a calamity if any constitution drafted now were to be adopted," he said "But since we must work toward world government or perish, we ought at once to begin trying to find out what kind of world government we ought to work toward."

This fall the educators will publish a bulletin explaining the committee's work. They also intend organization of an advisory council of 50 members, who will be invited to the group's first convention, where basic issues on the proposed constitution will be discussed

Besides Hutchins, other noted scholars drawing the blueprint for world government include Rex Tugwell, professor of political science at Chicago and former governor-general of Puerto Rico, Charles H Mellwain, professor emeritus of the science of government at Harvard, Harold Innis, head of the department of political economy at the University of Toronto and James McCauley Landis former dean of the Harvard Law School

As provided in Article 22 of the draft treaty, Hungary will be called upon to pay 200-million dollars to the USSR and the remaining 100-million to Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia.

University Club to Hear Cleveland Sports Writer

Ed. F. Bang, sports editor of the Cleveland News, will be the principal speaker at the annual dinner meeting and golf tournament of the Mansfield University club on Friday night at the Westbrook Country club, it was reported today by Chairman R. B. Konstam and J. Gilbert Baird.

The affair marks the opening of the fall activities of the club and the installation of officers for the 1946-47 season. Included will be a golf tournament at 2 p. m. tomorrow and a dinner at 7 p. m. The program will be open only to members.

ED. F. BANG

Bang, who will speak at the dinner, is one of the country's best known sports writers. He is a native of Sandusky where he worked on the Sandusky Journal and the Star-Register, the latter as an apprentice printer before starting on the editorial side of newspaper work. He joined the staff of the Youngstown Telegram in 1905 as sports editor and viisted Mansfield several times to cover the old O. and P. Baseball league games.

Bang joined the Cleveland News in 1907 at the request of Grantland Rice, then sports editor. When Rice left in March of that year for the Tennessean, Nashville, Tenn., Bang was made sports editor. As dean of Cleveland sports writers, he is widely known in the sports world and has an intimate acquaintance with all of the leading sports personalities of the past 40 years.

He is noted as a leader and mentor for young people in the amateur sports field. One of the guest speaker's principal activities has been the promotion of Christmas fight shows for the poor. They started in 1926 and have continued each year since, netting more than a quarter of a million dollars.

Bang served as military editor of the News throughout the war and conducted many fight shows at the hospitals in the Cleveland area, a task he still carries on for the veterans in Cleveland district hospitals.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1946

As a banker explains it, money is "liquid" just now—which may explain the speed at which it runs away.

Various localities report a plentiful supply of pig's feet on the market—and are at a loss to account for what became of the rest of the animal.

The year 1946 may go down in dairy history as the year in which millions of Americans found that they could do without butter.

Water Supply Project To Cost More

REVELATION that the Clear Fork water supply project is to "cost more" than was originally estimated is unlikely to occasion any considerable surprise among people who have been keeping tab on recent upward price trends.

It would be surprising, indeed, if any estimated costs of a year ago—or six months ago—would be sufficient to meet even the present stage of inflation . . . and how far this is to go before an inevitable break can be no more than a guess at this time.

Rise in labor and material costs is a part of the whole unfortunate procedure of devaluing the dollar—an early phase of the New Deal experiment—and the present struggle to get more dollars, in order to restore purchasing power equal to that of the 100-cent dollar once in vogue, accounts for much of the unrest that has been evidenced by employed persons during the past year.

Disregarding the violence and bloodshed that has marked the jurisdictional strike of squabbling AFL unions in Hollywood, as no more than a temperamental display of Hollywood eccentricity, other disrupting strikes over the country, with reports of sabotage activities in the Pittsburgh area, evidence the seriousness of the existing situation.

All that any one city, such as Mansfield, can do under such circumstances, is to attempt to solve its own problems in the best possible way during the time the national embroilment is in progress, and there is appearance of sound judgment in continuing with steps to assure this city an adequate water supply as soon as possible—even at the estimated increased cost.

Plans for Fire Prevention Week

UNDER the chairmanship of W. G. Schultz, acting for the Chamber of Commerce, Mansfield is planning a significant observance of Fire Prevention week, starting next Sunday.

Collection of waste paper by school children is already under way. On Oct. 8, Harry K. Rogers, nationally known clown who uses the name "Smoky," will make personal appearances at the Rotary luncheon, before audiences at the Junior and Senior high schools and the Foremen's club.

Posters will advertise fire hazards and methods of fire prevention throughout the city. Boy Scouts will distribute 13,000 pamphlets entitled "Holy Smoke" and "13 Ways Not to Burn Your Home." Schools and theaters will participate in events ranging from home inspections to showing of motion pictures.

It is hardly necessary to re-emphasize why all this is being done. Careful estimates show that unless such campaigns can be made effective all over the nation, 13,000 Americans will lose their lives in the horror of fire during the coming year. Carelessness or ignorance will start fires that will destroy half a billion dollars worth of property.

Fire prevention thus becomes a matter of self-protection for the family and the community. It is a matter of saving both lives and property.

When the city climaxes its Oct. 6-12 observance with a big Saturday night parade, the job of fire prevention will only have begun. The events of the week will have made citizens fire-conscious but it will be up to them to stay that way if the city is to cut its fire losses.

Communists and Socialists Differ

SOCIALISM and Communism sound much alike to many people, but Americans are now learning from the European scene that they are really bitter enemies. The Russians are implacable to Socialists in their zone of Germany. In Great Britain the Labor party declines to have anything to do with its more radical rivals.

Communists and Socialists are not merely competitors. They believe in different policies. Socialists advocate government ownership of natural resources, but allow private ownership of ordinary businesses. In the strict Communist state private business is forbidden. Because the two faiths get most of their followers from the same social groups, Socialism is proving in many parts of Europe to be good insurance against Communism.

Swedish Co-operatives Successful

SWEDEN, long in the lead of social and economic progress, has made a success of the co-operative method of manufacturing, buying and selling.

The wholesale co-operative organization has more than quadrupled its capital since 1930, and in its success is a formidable force against state socialism. The smaller retail co-ops, in which one member of each family has a share, buy from the wholesale society, which in turn taps markets all over the world for its stock.

Raw materials, surplus commodities, and foods including Citrus fruits are among their imports from the United States. In turn they export machinery, fodder cakes, light bulbs, china ware, and a growing list of other items.

Co-operatives have been tried and are working to a limited extent in this country. It is interesting to note how far such a movement can go when it is tackled with energy, efficiency and sufficient capital.

English View of Market Slump

COMMENTING on the recent drop in the stock market, a London financial paper, the Economist, says "The inevitable question is whether this is the first beginning of another 1929. . . . Post-war international security is being built on the assumption of American stability. . . . America's economic intentions are . . . as enigmatic as Russia's political objectives."

To which it seems fair to add that England is no more perplexed over America's economics right now than is America itself.

It is revealed that a surplus property agent for the government received $4,571 for disposing of $40 worth of goods which argues the advantage of working on straight commission as an expense allowance could scarcely be padded

THE INTERNATIONAL SYMPHONY

New Principles Are Established By Prosecution of Nazi Leaders

By RAYMOND MOLEY

CYNICAL views over the years that the Kellogg-Briand pacts had no teeth have, after nearly two decades, been answered. Basically, the verdict at Nuernberg goes back to a conspiracy to destroy the peace of the world and subject to Nazi tyranny a number of nations whose major interest between the wars was to keep out of war. The verdict is a justification of the plan of prosecution decided upon by Justice Jackson and his fellow prosecutors.

There was much dissent over this plan. Some of the Allied nations wanted a simpler course which would have involved fixing responsibility for lesser crimes than conspiracy. This would have made for a shorter trial.

Some Americans who were active in the early stages of preparation withdrew because of differences of opinion with Jackson.

But Jackson stuck to the major point in his case, despite the great difficulty of proof and the inevitable decline of public interest in a protracted and complex trial.

Jackson held throughout that the defendants were not being tried for losing a war, but for starting a war. And he proved his point. Those guilty defendants at Nuernberg are feeling the unmistakable teeth in the Kellogg-Briand pacts, in which Germany, among other nations, "solemnly" renounced was as an instrument of national policy.

It is the principle of these pacts that the Nuernberg trial puts into the relations of nations. Nothing more constructive has been established in centuries of agony and bloodshed.

The second World War, says the court, was due to "planned aggression." And the guilty defendants did the planning and must suffer. The record reveals how meticulously this plan was made.

The record shows another point, vigorously contested by the defendants and their lawyers. They tried, over and over, to put all the guilt on Hitler the dictator. But they were not the mere puppets of the fuehrer.

As the court points out, a plan of such scope could not exist solely in the will and determination of Hitler. The objectives of Hitler were no secret to the defendants.

In the presentation of evidence, incident after incident was proved in which the defendants were present when Hitler was discussing and perfecting his plans to tear up treaties and subject Europe to his will. No compulsion caused these men to go along with Hitler. They accepted high offices gratefully and they enthusiastically gave their aid to the master plan. Without this cooperation, Hitler's ambitions, the court said, would have been "academic and sterile."

Two points concerning this trial and judgment need constant reiteration in the face of doubts still entertained by many American lawyers.

The first is that the defendants were found guilty of violating law which existed before the commission of the acts charged. The court and the rules of procedure were created after the acts. Thus, the court was ex post facto; the law was not. The second point is that the trial rested not on Anglo-American jurisprudence, but on a charter created by the Allied nations which participated in the trial.

The essential point is that the defendants were tried for violations of law to which Germany was a party and they were given all the elements of a fair trial.

It may be true that Napoleon and Bismarck—even the Kaiser—would have been guilty of violating treaties and might, before this court, have been condemned. But their nations had not renounced war. Modern Germany had done so under the Kellogg Pact, and for that reason these responsible leaders are condemned.

In this respect, humanity has made a forward step from the darkness of the past.

Marquis Childs

Plan To Extend World Cooperative Movement.

STOCKHOLM — Within a few days, groups from all over the world will begin to assemble in Zurich, Switzerland, for the international congress of the cooperative movement. They will make great sacrifices to come to the first world congress of cooperators since 1937.

The Nazi revolution and then the war interrupted the once-powerful current of this movement toward economic democracy. In its truest and strongest manifestation, it has had the non-political objective of uniting consumers in ownership of the means to produce what they must buy and sell.

Cooperation suffered from the political absolutism of the left and the right where the state took over and became supreme in every department of life.

But both in Russia after 1917 and in Germany after 1933, the all-powerful state discovered it was impossible to stamp out the cooperative movement entirely.

The distribution system built up on a democratic basis was so effective that it survived revolution and dictatorship. But the dictators in both countries succeeded in transforming the movement so that it was merely a branch of the government and no longer independent.

There is still a nominal cooperative system surviving in the Soviet Union from the extensive development that existed before bolshevism. These state-controlled cooperatives will send a delegation to Switzerland but, as cooperative leaders elsewhere know very well, their independence will be so limited as to be practically nonexistent.

Cooperators in more fortunate countries where the movement has continued to grow—as in Sweden, where it now enrolls nearly half the population—have been trying since the end of the war to help their friends in invaded countries to get started again.

They have made several inquiries of the Russians to discover the fate of cooperative leaders in the Baltic States annexed by the Soviet Union, but so far no word has come back.

What were once democratic organizations, with politics a relatively unimportant factor, now seem to have been taken over for political ends. An example is in Czechoslovakia, where cooperatives are largely dominated by Communists.

One of the most important delegations at Zurich will be that from the United States. In the past decade, American cooperatives have doubled in size and in the volume of business they do on a cooperative basis.

Among the American delegates will be Murray Lincoln of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, who on both the practical and idealistic side has done much to push cooperation.

Another American delegate will be Howard Cowden of Kansas City, Mo., who has played an important part in developing cooperative refining and wholesaling of petroleum products for distribution to retail cooperatives throughout the United States. American cooperators now own oil wells and refineries.

Cowden is a member of a special committee which, at Zurich, will propose a plan for the formation of an international oil cooperative. This would be a bold step, since the oil trade is costly and involves large investments.

But while the start would inevitably be modest, many cooperative leaders are confident that the plan is workable. Still, in many parts of the world, cooperation is a big business. The turnover of English and Scottish wholesale securities is measured in hundreds of millions of pounds annually. An international oil cooperative that could supply these consumers would have a ready-made market of sizable dimensions.

Because it lacks the deceptive simplicity of a formula for saving the world at one stroke, many scorn it. But nevertheless, the cooperative is still a living force capable of growth and expansion.

Blandy and His Aides Object To Cancellation of Third Bomb Test

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It will probably be denied, but Vice Adm. William H. P. Blandy and several of his top associates are boiling mad at the cancellation of the third atomic bomb test.

This was the test which the scientists predicted would really show the world the true power of the A-bomb, and which would have shown modern navies to be completely obsolete.

Unfortunately the reports of the colossal damage done by the first and second bombs were only made public piecemeal, days after the explosion took place, so that the public never got a clear picture of the fantastic destruction caused by the bomb.

Admiral Blandy and his aides have now made a confidential report which shows that more than half the men who would have been aboard the Bikini fleet would have been instantly killed; while more than 60 per cent of the survivors would have been permanently disabled or died of wounds.

Test No. 3—underwater—would have been even more horrible. That is why men like Blandy who have been doing everything possible to educate the public to the truth about atomic energy are now pretty well disgusted. One example of the mistaken conclusions which the public got as a result of bombs No. 1 and 2 is the case of "Pig 311."

"Pig 311" is the porker supposed to have been placed aboard ship near the center of the explosion to demonstrate the effectiveness of bomb radiation on humans. After the second test it was reported that "Pig 311" had been hurled into the water by the explosion, had swum around 36 hours, and managed to survive with no sign of illness.

Scientists who checked this story, however, discovered that "Pig 311" had never been near the explosion and the incident had not occurred.

It never leaked out but when Admiral Blandy was about to hold a press conference aboard the USS Burleson which brought the surviving animals of the Bikini test back to Washington, an aide suggested that Blandy pose with "Pig 311" as evidence that the porker survived the terrors of the A-bomb.

"I will not be a party to any such hoax," replied Blandy, angrily. "We all know that 'Pig 311' never left this boat."

In the press conference which followed, "Pig 311" was not mentioned.

Real fact is that Blandy and his aides wish their superiors shared their realization of the A-bomb's devastating power.

Note—The bombs used at Bikini are mere beanbags alongside future bombs capable of destroying a hundred-square-mile area.

Budget Balancing.

Senator Kenneth McKellar's conference with President Truman on flood-control spending wasn't as congenial—or as fruitful—as the gentleman from Tennessee intimated to the press.

Truman promised to "review" his executive order, under the War Powers Act, by which he slashed the $500,000,000 appropriation for rivers and harbors and flood control by two-thirds. This "promise" was largely a face-saver for McKellar, so he wouldn't have to tell the newsmen that he had been turned down cold in his efforts to get the order rescinded.

Actually, he was turned down cold. Furthermore, he caught an indirect lecture from the president for preaching economy for others while raiding the treasury himself.

Plainly irritated by demands from the Tennessee senator and several members of congress who accompanied him that the anti-pork-barrel order be rescinded, Truman said:

"Several of you have been after me at one time or another to balance the budget, but when I begin doing it—as in this case—you step on my ties."

As an afterthought, Truman added that those who were most vocal about balancing the budget usually wanted it balanced in some other state.

McKellar's Blushes.

Obviously the president had in mind a recent speech in which McKellar rapped him for the order blocking the rivers-and-harbors pork grab and challenged his right to issue the order.

The Tennesseean flushed as he listened to this lecture and looked for a moment as if he had been beaned with a croquet mallet. When he got his tongue into gear again, he sputtered something about being "heartily in accord" with balancing the budget.

He added that the rivers-and-harbors project shouldn't be docked more than its proportionate share.

Truman made no promises about voiding his order, except to say that he would be glad to "review" it. He repeated that it was necessary to balance the budget, partly because of its effect in maintaining the high prestige the United States enjoys among other nations.

If the job had to be done at the expense of rivers and harbors, he was prepared to do it, he said, despite the bricks that might be thrown at him.

"The president usually has to take the bricks," he concluded, "and I can take them."

Note—The White House eventually may make some slight concessions on certain reclamation projects which the budget bureau now admits were cut too sharply, but that's all.

South Dakota's Wealth-Producing "Bonanza Strip."

IN SOUTH DAKOTA—They haven't struck oil in this state, but they've struck groceries—in a big way.

Agriculture is booming here, notably in that big belt about 100 miles wide running up and down the center of the state. It has come to be called "The Bonanza Strip." High prices during war years and since for wheat and other small grains, barley, oats and the like, have produced incomes fabulous for farming in this area—they compare with a sudden strike of oil or a sudden coup on the stock market in the high-rolling days. Everybody in this area is rich today.

In a way it is a miracle. While eastern South Dakota normally fares well with its rich, deep soil like that of Iowa, what is now "the Bonanza Strip," usually is hit by recurring drought.

"Now they have had four fine years in a row, this one better than all. That never happened before.

The contrast is striking to anyone, such as the writer, who was here in that hideous drought of 1936, traveling as a reporter with President Roosevelt. We rode up and down and across that desolate area, a veritable desert. Wheat was seared and withered before it hardly got out of the ground. Livestock was dying. Sickly herds were being driven here and there in desperate search of food and water.

The federal government moved in rapidly with relief. Rex Tugwell, then with the Agriculture department, was along with a check book. While he was being damned everywhere else then as a New Deal planner in that presidential election year he was a hero out in this country.

For he was writing the checks for relief for the destitute, and there were so many of them here then. We eastern reporters learned then about this country, how it must be farmed in large acreages in order to make up in the few good years for recurring lean years. That is still true.

You hear the Bonanza stories on all sides. About the man who a few years ago working as a day laborer at $4.50 a day and this year made $60,000 on his wheat. And the story of the salesman who was asked by the wife of a rancher to bring out a piano on his next trip. She had wanted one for a long time for her young daughter.

This family had struggled through the hard years on a farm without any modern conveniences. The salesman arrived with the piano. The price was $625. She dashed off a check. The salesman, somewhat surprised, remarked they must be prosperous. Yes, they were going to pay $60,000 to $70,000 in income tax this year.

They might be an extreme case, but there are others almost as good. Swollen bank accounts through the area tell the story. High prices have attracted outsiders, including easterners, to buy farms for quick returns, and some of these have fared nicely.

Yet, with rising prosperity, there is also the rising chorus of resentment against federal regulations of all sorts touching agriculture and cattle-raising, including, of course, price controls.

Now, that the people finally have hit it rich, they want to be left free to run their business in their own way.

And, only a decade ago, such a cry for federal help, and such a response! It's the same old human story, of course.

Reverberations From Ouster of Wallace.

WASHINGTON — Citizens across the country who believe that this capital city's biggest crime is its habit of taking itself too seriously might get a giggle out of the most recent predicament of local politicians.

It concerns the aftermath of the Truman-Wallace-Byrnes affair, and taught the Washington political biggies once again that it's wise to keep a weather eye cocked on the hinterlands.

The foreign affairs squabble which resulted in President Truman kicking Commerce Secretary Wallace off the cabinet caused such a terrific to-do that at first both Democratic and Republican leaders vied for the honor of booting Brother Henry in the pants.

Around Washington, the only question seemingly under discussion was whether or not Wallace had any right to be meddling in the bailiwick of Secretary of State Byrnes.

Democratic leaders promptly announced that Wallace was a liability to their campaign hopes.

Republican leaders leaped at the chance to build the Wallace episode into a huge asset for their fall dreams.

And both sides forgot about the middlewest.

Now, if you haven't been around through the midwest lately, it may be that you don't realize that Henry Wallace has been pretty well known in those parts for a good many years. Moreover, so was his father before him.

True, folks out that way have sometimes figured that young Henry was "getting too big for his britches," and they didn't always like the kind of company he was keeping.

But he was a successful farmer in his own right, and you still find plenty of people out there who believe he was the best secretary of agriculture the farmers ever had.

And as long as he did his job well, a lot of farmers figured that, while they didn't cotton to the Wallace crowd, still it was Henry's own business who he buddied around with on Saturday nights, so to speak.

A lot of them with whom this correspondent talked this summer would get a terrific laugh out of the way in which Wallace managed to get himself in hot water again. But it doesn't follow that they would ostracize, outlaw or fear him.

That is what Washington politicians have been finding out lately—even though they understandably haven't been saying much about it.

Those Football Pools.

Ordinarily we don't get very excited about the football pool racket. We figure that if the suckers don't have any more sense than to buck the immutable laws of mathematics on the slim chance that the racketeer won't take a powder if he gets "hit" too hard, they deserve what they get.

Our customary tolerance has been disturbed, however, by the news that the racketeers now are taking bets on high school games. This, we think, is going too far.

Besides inviting high school kids to gamble, the pool promoters' invasion of the scholastic field raises the possibility that some enterprising gambler may attempt to fix a game.

We are confident that the average schoolboy gridder would resist bribery just as certainly as a college player, but we don't think he ought to be exposed to the temptation, or even to the company of the unwholesome characters in the pool racket.—Akron Beacon-Journal.

Cramped For Space, Vets' Relief Commission Curtails Its Program

By ALVIN PREYER

The Richland County Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief commission is unable to give adequate service to veterans because of the lack of office space.

That's the opinion of Carl Mapes, member of the commission, who pointed out that the agency must operate from a tiny office room in the basement of the Memorial building.

"With some 15,000 veterans in the county, the commission has been operating with an office force of two persons in a space no larger than 12 by 12 feet. Our minimum needs are 20 by 40 feet," Mapes said.

"There is no space for files in which we should have the record of every veteran of the county, as most other commissions do," Mapes continued. "There is no privacy, a thing that is essential for some of the confidential interviews that are necessary with veterans seeking assistance.

"Although it is the responsibility of the county commissioners to provide the space for us," Mapes said, "we have been unable to get any action from them

"Members of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief commission are united on the question of the need for space and are willing to pay for it. However, the individuals on the commission have been unsuccessful in endeavors to locate suitable space.

* * *

WANTS SPACE IN COURTHOUSE

"In most counties," Mapes said, "the commission is located in the courthouse, and we believe that it should be possible to use a room in the Richland county courthouse which now stores old law books and antiquated machinery.

"The critical condition of our commission was vividly illustrated," Mapes pointed out, "when we were unable to supply the proper service in relief and temporary employment during the recent strike crisis here. We were unable to do so because of the fact that we could not accumulate sufficient records.

"We don't want to be caught in a similar condition should there be another crisis," he added.

Operating on a budget of $50,000, the commission has brought $350,000 into the county in soldier claims and benefits, Mapes pointed out.

"We have the will, and the unity to build a super-deluxe service for the veterans of Richland county and they deserve it. We only hope that someone will answer our plea for space," Mapes said.

C. L. Shoup, chairman of the county commissioners, said, "We'd be only too glad to help if we could, but we can't find the space and we haven't funds to fix up a space which might be used in the courthouse.

"It would be impossible to use the basement room," Shoup added, "as the machinery there is anchored to a special foundation."

Columbu's second expedition to the New World was made in 1493 with 17 vessels carrying 1,500 persons.

ROCKET SEEN AS WAR WEAPON

Army Man Tells Engineers It Has Big Future.

Rockets will play an important part in any future war, Brig. Gen. G. M Wells, commanding officer of the ordnance department, La Carne, O., predicted last night in a talk before Mansfield engineers at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

He talked on "The Development and Use of Rockets During the War" at a meeting of the Mansfield section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. The meeting opened the group's fall and winter program.

The general traced the history of rocket development, from its first known use by the Chinese in ancient times to the present day when they obtain speeds up to 1,500 feet per second.

"The atomic bomb has revolutionized rocket development," Gen. Wells said, "in that all efforts are now being bent to produce rockets capable of carrying the bomb to great distances, whereas during the war development was on short range rockets."

German V-2 bombs, plans, and scientific personnel, all brought to America, have greatly aided the development of rockets in this country at a great saving," Gen. Wells concluded.

Mansfield School Pupils Win Places In Anthology

Four poems written by Mansfield school pupils, have been chosen for the current issue of the "Anthology of Ohio Verse," published in connection with the events arranged for Ohio Poetry Day on Oct. 18.

The four poems, written by Carole F. Bunsey and Frances Wojcik of St. Peter's, Bobby Pryor of Hedges and Jimmy Milliken of Brinkerhoff, also appear in a recent volume of poetry written exclusively by Mansfield and Richland county school children.

This latter volume, edited by Helen Loomis Linham and Mirl Slick Vawter, Mansfield poets, is entitled "Fifty Best Poems"

Write Meat and Girls.

The poem by Bobby Pryor, deals with a current household problem. Bob says:

"I went to the market
To buy me some meat,
But all I brought home
Was two tired feet"

That by Frances Wojcik deals with the subject of "Girls" and is a realistic presentation of the "tom-boy" problem. The verse by Jimmy Milliken tells of "The World" while Carol F. Bunsey's contribution is about a racial problem which she calls, "We're Brothers, We Two"

The smaller volume of poems also will include writings of school pupils in Lexington, Union Rural and Woodville.

All show ability to "sling a mean verse" and some do more than that They contain promise of potential talent of more than ordinary worth

She Can't But Does.

Joan Henry of Union Rural says she can't write a poem, then goes on to prove that she can by a clever bit of versifying Marianne Eichinger won first award for grades ten through 12 at St. Peter's by her poem on "A Woman's Love," in which Marianne writes with unexpected humor. Mary Louise White of the Mansfield Senior high school rhymes in reminiscent mood of the building of a house across the street and Kenneth Cairns of Woodville tells of the "The Flowers."

There are five quatrains from Lexington high school on various subjects which add to the volume's interest. The final poem "The Animal's Ball" by Billy W Ball of Union Rural high school is one of the most clever and appealing of the book.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Bert Childers and the Melon Patch

Bert Childers put an ad in the Clarion the other day. Here's what it said:

"Planted more melons than I can eat this year. Stop by and pick as many as you want. All free."

As you can guess, plenty of folks sent their kids over and plenty of the parents came too. Stripped Bert's melon patch in no time. And as they went away, Bert treated the kids to lemonade, and offered the grownups a glass of ice-cold sparkling beer.

Naturally it puzzled some folks ... but Bert explains: "It gives me a kick to share things when I can afford to—whether it's the melons, or the lemonade, or beer. I guess I just like to indulge my whims."

From where I sit, if we had more "self-indulgent" people like Bert—who believe in share and share alike, live and let live, this tired world would be a whole lot better off.

'TOUR OF DUTY' GIVES PICTURE OF U. S. TODAY

Problems that face Americans in the troubled post-war world are given comprehensive treatment in IN TOUR OF DUTY, new book by John Dos Passos, which will be made available Monday at the Mansfield public library.

The book permits Americans to see themselves through the eyes of one of the country's keenest reporters. It's a story of one of the nation's central problems today—how to carry over into the post-war world the miracle of our war-time effort and war-time virtue.

* * *

Other new non-fiction includes: A ROCK IN EVERY SNOWBALL, Sullivan; FIELD BOOK OF EASTERN BIRDS, Hausman; FANFARE FOR ELIZABETH, Sitwell; CHECKER BOARD STRATEGY, Banks; WINDOWS AND WINDOW GLAZING, Molloy; RADIO ALPHABET; AMERICA'S FABRICS, Pfeiffer; DIARY OF A WILLIAMSBURG HOSTESS, Campbell; SIEGFRIED'S JOURNEY, Sassoon, DUST ON MY HEART, James.

GOLDEN CORN, by Lin Taiyi, is the story of Sha, a Chinese girl who strove to materialize all her dreams. When she and her husband, Wen Lang, have a child who brings rain to parched fields and good luck to the town of Tongho, the story of two individuals becomes that of the struggle of flesh and spirit, science against destiny, logic against faith.

* * *

IN A DARK GARDEN, by Frank G. Slaughter, is the story of Julian Chisholm, a young Confederate Army field surgeon in the Civil War. Chisholm is torn between his love for Jane Anderson, who operates as a Union agent, and his devotion to the Confederate cause. How the two lovers are finally reunited and set out to build a new life together is the climax of a colorful and adventurous story.

KEY OF THE CHEST, by Neil M. Gunn, is like all of this author's books dominated by the Highlands and the sea. While strange and silent Douglas trudges into the village when everyone else is keeping out of the monstrous storm, the reader feels that evil will surely come out of this night. It is stark evil that shocks the whole hardworking village and involves most of it. His story contains not only enough suspense for the mystery devoted, but depth of characted for the most thoughtful reader.

Other fiction:

THE HOUSE ON THE PARK, Worthington; SEBASTIAN, Armitage; DEATH'S OLD SWEET SONG, Webb; THE VELVET WELL, Gearon; RIO RENEGADE, Ernenwein.

Alvin and Darley Gordon adopted OUR SON PABLO while making a documentary film in Mexico. Pablo is a young Indian boy and this is the story of the two years he spent with the Gordons in California and his amusing struggle with civilization. Inspired by the urge to gain education and become a leader of his people, he studied at the university. This is an interesting experiment in the good neighbor policy.

IT'S OFFICIAL—A proclamation setting up next week as Fire Prevention week in Mansfield has been signed by Mayor Roy Vaughn, shown above making the observance official. During the week-long program, starting Sunday, Mansfielders will be made conscious of the huge property losses annually as the result of fire, and they will be urged to eliminate fire hazards in homes and business places. Shown here with the mayor are Fire Chief L. J. Steele, left, and W. W. Enlow, service-safety director, and Joseph Prewitt, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce. The C. of C. is sponsoring the observance.

Indicted by the September Holmes county grand jury, Rabe was alleged to have stolen musical instruments from the Holmesville school, selling them in Canton. He changed his plea to guilty after arraignment.

BARUCH INSISTS WALLACE RIGHT HIS 'MISTAKES'

Says Ex-Commerce Secretary Admitted He Erred in Letter to Truman.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, United States delegate to the United Nations atomic energy commission, stood firmly today on a sharp demand that Henry A. Wallace correct publicly the "mistakes" that Baruch said Wallace made in criticizing the United Nations atomic control plan.

Speaking with deep feeling at a news conference last night, the 76-year-old elder statesman declared that Wallace admitted personally to him last Friday in his office here that he was in error and then had not signed a statement acknowledging the asserted errors which was prepared later by representatives of Baruch and Wallace at their direction.

Baruch made it clear that the United States delegation could not consider any modification in the "fundamental principles" of the plan, which was attacked at length by Wallace in a letter on foreign policy written last July 23 while Wallace then was secretary of commerce.

The United States delegate released, with the direct authorization of President Truman, a long memorandum to the president answering Wallace's letter point by point. He also released the statement which he said Wallace did not sign; an alternate statement submitted to him by Wallace which he rejected, and a telegram dispatched by Baruch to Wallace late yesterday charging that the "errors" are "gravely dangerous to the delicate negotiations now under way" and that they "create confusion and division among our people."

Wallace was not available for comment in Washington last night. He resigned recently as secretary of commerce at the request of President Truman as the result of differences with Secretary of State Byrnes on American foreign policy.

The Baruch memorandum to Mr. Truman said the "misstatements in the Wallace letter may be summarized under these headings:

"1. The method of determining the stages of transition to the ultimate control plan,

"2. The content and sequence of these transition stages.

"3. The proposed limitation on the great power veto,

"4. The nature of the Soviet proposal,

"5. The refusal by the United States to depart from the principles of its plan."

Food Outlook Darkens Here

turned last month. Margarine has appeared infrequently and then in 12-pound lots 10 days apart.

Eggs sold from 59 to 79 cents a dozen, depending on size. Grocers blamed a seasonal slump in egg production. Top grade eggs sold at 61 cents a dozen on Aug 29.

Butter, consistently mounting in price for the past month, reached its new peak of 98 cents although one chain store offered it at 85 cents and most independent grocers asked 90 to 95 cents.

On Aug. 29, butter sold from 75 to 77 cents.

C. C. Beelman, manager of the Ration Board, said that retailers have been granted 17 and 18 per cent mark-ups, respectively, on margarine and lard. Ceilings on both commodities average around 20 cents per pound, Beelman said. He said the new mark-up ruling went into effect this week.

Beef Cow Prices Lower.

The almost total disappearance of meat from Mansfield counters comes in the face of the fact that prices for beef cows at Chicago today, in a market controlled by price ceilings, are higher than they were in the control-free markets of July and August.

L. M. Wyatt, head of the Chicago livestock branch of the agriculture department, said good cows brought $14.00-15.50 late in August but sell at $15.25-17.25 now. Medium grades advanced from $11.75-14.00 to $12.50-15.25. Beef cows are a major part of the present small arrivals in Chicago, the Associated Press reported.

How anyone could buy livestock at higher prices, and sell meat at lower prices, and still make a profit, was an incidental item of bewilderment to Chicago traders.

Steelman Sees Danger of 'Early Severe Price Collapse' In United States

RECONVERSION CHIEF WARNS OF PAY HIKES

Higher Costs to Consumer Are Likely to Stifle Demand, He Says.

BY MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Reconversion Director John R. Steelman said today a "further rapid price rise" might stifle demand for goods and "precipitate an early and severe price collapse, with serious economic and social consequences."

Steelman also spoke out bluntly against a general round of "large wage increases at this time.

He said these could benefit "only special groups," and in general would do so "at the expense of fellow workers throughout the nation."

Two Problems.

Declaring that the national economy is simultaneously "in a position of great promise and of great danger," Steelman set forth "two great problems" which he said America faces.

For the long range, to "maintain our economy at full production and full employment."

In the meantime, to "prevent runaway inflation."

"If prices keep on rising and precipitate a wage-price spiral, business and agriculture will find themselves priced out of the market and into a depression," Steelman asserted in his quarterly report to President Truman and congress.

Cites Backlog of Demand.

He added that if on the other hand "we can successfully retard the rise in prices, the backlog of demand for goods and the tremendous pools of savings and current income should reduce the rate at which demand slackens."

On stating that "our national target" is a "balance of supply with demand at a high level of production and employment," the reconversion chief rejected the suggestion of "some . . . that the best way" to achieve this goal is to "let prices go."

"An uncontrolled advance in the general level of prices," Steelman said, "is the worst possible way to bring demand into balance with supply."

Such a course, he added, "can only lead to price collapse."

Just Beginning.

His report said also:

1. Production of consumer durable goods, such as automobiles, refrigerators and washing machines, is just beginning to hit its stride, but "there is some indication that the boom is off" the market for clothes and other soft goods.

2. If consumer or business spending — now at "extremely high" levels—should falter, the government "must be prepared to readjust its policies to promote an increase in consumption."

3. To arrest such a decline in spending, "the first and most salutary action could be taken by business itself in reducing prices —wherever possible—without reducing wages."

4. The shortage of meat "will become worse this winter."

5. Clothing supply is "rapidly increasing" but there is "danger that prices of cotton cloth and apparel may get out of reach of the average consumer." By June, Steelman reported, clothing costs were 23 per cent above those of May, 1943

"There still will be as many people in need of housing at the beginning of 1947 as there were on Jan. 1, 1946."

COMPLETING PLANS

IBERIA—Iberia's two 4-H clubs, the Sew-Just-So and Thoughtful Farmers, are completing final plans to attend a county-wide achievement night meeting at Levering hall in Mt. Gilead, Oct. 12.

Village club leaders are Mrs. Pauline McDonald, Mrs. Leona Baker, Mary Lou Vail, Everett McClarren and M. Doyle Rusk. The members will receive certificates and pins for completing projects.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, October 4.

ALTHOUGH there are excellent presages for a smooth, easy and happy advance upon desired hopes and wishes, in relation to business, finance, professional, family and affectional affiliations, yet there are certain perplexities which the mind may not be able to clearly grasp or manipulate. These are likely to keep things "at sixes and sevens," with the probable slowing down of aggressive action because of the uncertainty.

Those whose birthday it is have fair promise of progress in business, finance and industry, as well as flourishing conditions in home, professional, social and romantic alliances. These, however, may present problems and complications, in which it may be difficult to arrive at conclusions which might swerve the affairs away from hazardous developments.

Shun discord, impulsive or rash words and deeds, and seek diversion in safe and happier channels.

A child born on this day has fair promise of a happy and successful life if it will suppress selfish, impetuous and reckless behavior, and analyse important decisions.

MILK PRICES RISE

BUCYRUS — Bucyrus milk prices rose today when dairies collected 18 cents per quart for milk sold by delivery or over the counter. Increased prices to producers was given as the reason for the increase. Galion, Crestline, Mansfield and Marion also reported similar increases.

GALION — Galion police today continued their investigations of the city's two latest burglaries. The homes of Russell A. Gibson, 642 North Market street, and Edward F. Nungesser, 638 North Market street, were broken into sometime between 6:45 and 10 p. m., Monday, according to the police report.

Both homes were entered through unlocked kitchen windows at the rear of the homes. Dresser drawers in bedrooms were ransacked and small articles of jewelry were taken.

Meanwhile, four more men were sent to Crawford county jail, Monday, to serve out $5 fines, costs and 30-day jail sentences, after being tried in Mayor William Amann's court on charges of being drunk and disorderly. All men are employed by the Big Four railroad maintenance department and live at Camp 19, here.

In addition, three other men, Ormal Leonard of Galion, Martin Malekovic of Chicago, and Slane Harmon, also of Galion, were fined $5 and costs. The 30-day jail sentence for each was suspended when fine and costs were paid.

H. Miley, director of the college department of speech. The play will close the day's program which will be highlighted by a football game with Hiram college, a parade and a barbecue.

Bolton returned immediately to his home and was not available for information concerning the type of building or when construction will be started.

Winchell — On Broadway

THERE IS a vibrant hush along side streets when midnight puts on its negligee . . . The canyons are packed tight with silence extending as far as the ear can reach . . . Restless breezes hold a whispered tete-a-tete as they hum around corners . . . Mountains of shadows waltz, gracefully across gutters . . . Darkened windows are whitewashed with moonshine, and the luminous buildings stand like frozen ghosts . . . Street lamps poke fingers of light through the inky night . . . Stillness grips the atmosphere in a lover's embrace. The sinister beauty of ebony silence prowls the streets searching for the dreams of poets.

* * *

Central Park spills its scenic treasure in the dark . . . Fallen leaves frolic with balmy winds—indulging in their whackrobatics. . . . Trees drip with greenery. . . . Winding roads are disturbed only by the metallic gargle of passing cars . . . Sometimes it's so quiet—you can hear the castenets of crickets . . . Spacious lawns are patches of natural beauty in the stone and steel landscape . . . The surrounding skyline is coated with moonglow . . . Flashlights of the patroling park police turn on and off like giant fireflies.

* * *

THE MAIN STEM during the pre-dawn hours settles down to a paralytic pace. Its bonfire of activity has been quenched and only tiny flickers of energy remain. When the mazda display is snuffed out—the street's shallow gayety vanishes like dreams . . . Only the dim lights of all-night eateries blink through the midnightness . . . Broadway loafers perch around tables and gnaw on their unimportant opinions. The speaker doesn't interest anybody, and nobody interests the speaker. . . . The Grandest Canyon is cushioned with calm while it patiently waits for the soundless crack of dawn.

* * *

There are always humans haunting the town from midnight to sunrise. Many of them are rootless people, withering and waiting for zeros . . . Many are sinful and shameless. Most are the homeless and the lonely, who have found life a continual war. The serenity of night seems to offer them a little peace . . . Torch-luggers (who cannot sleep) wander through streets like ghosts of dead loves . . . The night brings out the muggers and felons who make a jungle of their sector . . . There are unhappy alcoholics spouting their depressing autobiographies.

* * *

IT'S SO QUIET you can hear the crisp rustle of newspaper pages being turned. Or your car's motor purr . . . Night workers gaze through leaden-lidded orbs and swap empty stares . . . A gust of wind heralds the approach of a bus or Broadway trolley as they wreck the wall of silence . . . Cleaners sweep the littered pavements—the swish-swish-swish of brooms and hose providing an accompaniment for a symphony of boredom . . . Monotony finds a home here.

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—For the enlightenment of any who insist that Roosevelt's union movement ever was intended as a boon to the American worker, I should like to discuss a union constitution which governs the members of Local No. 1 of the Wine, Liquor and Distillery Workers' union, of New York. The boss of this union is Ben Pross, a notorious and unregenerate criminal whose pedigree has been stated here before.

In approaching this subject, please bear in mind that the politicians, Roosevelt, Robert F. Wagner, Henry Wallace, William Green, Sidney Hillman and all the rest of them, constantly and deliberately drugged the faceless man with propaganda to the effect that they were liberating him from slavery. Bear in mind, also, that they did not give him a chance to refuse to join a union and have resolutely thwarted, right down to this hour, all efforts to compel unions to revise their constitutions to conform to the constitution of the United States.

* * *

THE OFFICERS of Local No. 1 are the president, vice president, secretary-treasurer, recording-secretary, executive business manager and two trustees.

Pross is the executive business manager, although a thorough convass of his career reveals only that he has been a crook by trade for many years.

The president appoints all committees and may appoint such additional personnel "as shall be necessary" at whatever wages he deems fit. This is where the racketeers are invited to sign the payroll. He also appoints the election tellers.

THE EXECUTIVE business manager, the crook, Ben Pross, is empowered to tap the treasury for "all necessary expenditures" and he may employ his friends as clerical workers at salaries determined by him. Pross, the bankruptcy swindler. He negotiates all contracts with employers, which means that this criminal has the power to shake down the employers for personal graft or sell out the members by reducing their wages or increasing their hours in return for money slipped to him by the bosses, who are, incidentally, no better than they should be themselves.

The trustees are required to examine the books and records from time to time "to see that they are correct" and they must make formal report of their findings.

Formal reports to whom?

Why to Pross and the rest of the board. Not to the members.

* * *

IF A RANK-AND-FILER should make charges against Ben Pross, the executive board, of which he is the boss, "shall compile all data and proof for and against the accused," shall render the decision, as a court, and "shall assure all members a just and fair verdict." Thus, Pross and his mob conduct both the prosecution and the defense and would assure the members a "just and fair verdict" just as Stalin would guarantee a just and fair verdict against Stalin.

There are many other refinements of the Rooseveltian concept of freedom, human dignity for the lower orders, and citizenship, in this document, but I shall sign off with this one taken from Adolf Hitler's own system of justice: if an accused member is found guilty of an offense for which no penalty is fixed by the constitution, the presiding officer shall fix the penalty himself."

Lippmann — Today and Tomorrow

TURKEY as a whole, rather than the Dardanelles alone, may be looked upon as a gate which can be opened in either direction. To the north the gate opens the way to the vital centers of the Soviet Union, to the Ukraine and the Caucasus. To the south the gate opens the way to the Mediterranean, the Middle East, to India and to Africa.

If the Soviets dominate Turkey and hold the keys to the gate, they can close the approaches to southern Russia, which gives them much greater security against British and American sea-and-air power; but they can also open the gate, and from Turkey the Red Army can advance through the Middle East.

The unique importance of the Turkish position is that it is two-way. It is at once a defensive and an offensive position of the highest strategic importance. From it mortal blows can be struck either way, by Russia to the south, by the western powers to the north.

* * *

THUS THE ISSUE is nakedly presented and it cannot be evaded. If Turkey is to be dominated by either side, it gets security by rendering the other side profoundly insecure, for Turkey, let us say it once more, is a gate which opens in two directions and to the vital centers of the great powers.

Nowhere else is the issue so clear and so genuine. As compared with Trieste, Greece, Iran, the Danube, Korea, Manchuria, the difference is this.

In no one of these places are all the essential elements present: namely, that the military power of the Soviets, which is in their ground forces, and the air-and-sea amphibious power of the west could come to grips and reach the vital centers on both sides.

* * *

THE FAR EAST is important but it is too remote from the heart of Russia and of the western powers to be primary and decisive. Germany is overwhelmingly important in any settlement; but because we are not a land power, Germany is not the place where we can now exert directly our power.

If this analysis horrifies any one because of its undisguised emphasis on force, I would beg him to remember that the whole point of the argument is that because Turkey is two-way gate, it is the place where a joint settlement to neutralize Turkey is at once practicable and necessary.

It is necessary because here the vital interests of both sides are directly in jeopardy. It is practicable because here each side can exert its own kind of power with decisive effect against the other. Therefore the inducement to negotiation about the realities is compelling.

* * *

THE TURKISH question is one question which cannot be left to altercation and litigation by Byrnes and Molotov. It is a question which requires the resumption of diplomatic intercourse among the governments, and at the highest levels, and on the realities of the balance and the division of power.

That is the first thing that must come first—the territorial settlements, the economic arrangements, the control of atomic energy, the development of the U. N. must wait upon it.

The risks are great. But they are no greater than in letting the real issues fester while secondary issues are fought over but are not settled.

The stakes are great.

But because they are great they require a true negotiation which, if it is wisely pursued, can lead us into a world settlement.

KENT—(AP)—Kent State university has an all-time high enrollment of 4,794 students, Registrar E. C. Stopher reported today.

START SEARCH FOR JOBS FOR HANDICAPPED

Committee Ready to Appeal to Employers to Aid Workers With Physical Defects.

The slogan "Hire the handicapped—It's Good Business," will be featured in Mansfield and throughout the nation next week, officially designated by the 79th Congress and by presidential proclamation as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week.

Designed to focus attention on the accomplishments of the physically handicapped who are gainfully employed, the drive will also call attention to the need for finding employment for the approximately 300,000 handicapped veterans and non-veterans registered at U. S. Employment offices throughout the nation.

National, regional, state and local officials will collaborate with community programs to emphasize the responsibility of all employers for the employment of handicapped workers for jobs for which they can qualify

Committee Named.

C. W. Handley, manager of the U. S. Employment office in Mansfield, is heading the observance here. Serving with him on the committee are:

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn, Robert E. Rogers of the Amvets; Harry Vandervort, county veterans' service officer, W. T. Sawyer, Veterans' Administration; William R. Allen, Veterans' Information center; Ralph Hughes, American Legion, Walter Rusk, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Carl Mapes, Disabled Veterans; Dr. C. N. McNeil, Post 72, American Legion; John G. Routzon, Chamber of Commerce; Harry Soulen, Mansfield Manufacturers' club; Ray Calene, Mansfield merchants; A. E. Baerren, and A. L. Allen of Empire Steel corporation.

Industry, merchants, veterans' organizations, churches, all organizations and individuals will be urged to join in the job hunting campaign.

Mansfield theatres are scheduled to run a short film, "No Help Wanted," featuring the story of physically handicapped persons during the week that the drive is on.

Letters will be sent to the management of each industry, and to retail merchants, telling what has been done, and suggesting what may still be accomplished.

Hear Administrator.

At a luncheon meeting, to be held Oct. 9, at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Wendell Edgerly, acting administrator of the Veterans' Employment Service for Ohio, will address the guests on the work that can be done to further the interests of the physically handicapped.

While the total number of physically handicapped persons now employed in the Mansfield area is not known, figures since the first of the year show that about 144 persons have been placed in jobs by the USES and about 450 by the Veterans' Administration since it began operations in March.

While monthly placements of physically handicapped persons average 65 for the Mansfield and county area, there is still a monthly reservoir of about 50 men to be placed due to the speed with which men are being released from the hospitals, USES and VA officials said

6 PROPERTIES PUT ON BLOCK

Houses, 4-Acre Parcel in City Ordered Sold By Sheriff.

Six parcels of land in Mansfield, four of them containing homes, will go on the auction block in the liquidation of assets of the Peter Klein estate, a common pleas court order indicated today.

The court ordered sale of the property after Edward J. Klein, son of Peter Klein and one of his heirs, brought suit to partition the land. A board of commissioners, appointed by the court, ruled that the land could not be partitioned without serious injury to its value so the court ordered its sale, the proceeds to be divided among the heirs.

Due to be auctioned, probably within the next six weeks, are lots 5,706 and 5,707, 5,710 and 5,711 and 5,727. A four-acre tract off Cline avenue will also be sold. In addition, part of a lot in Canton is to be sold

Lots 5,706 and 5,707 are at 81 Lexington avenue where a house stands on lot 5,707. Lot 5,710 and 5,711, at 89 Lexington avenue, have houses and garages on the property. Lot 5,727, at 32 Florence avenue, contains a house. There are no buildings on the four-acre Cline avenue tract.

Appraisals of the properties, by Commissioners Walter E. Larimore, Joe Seibert and E. R. Robinson, are as follows:

Lot 5,706, $1,500; 5,707, $9,500; 5,710, $7,250; 5,711, $1,500; 5,727, $7,500; the four-acre tract, $7,500.

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson, who will conduct the sale at the courthouse, said the law requires that land publicly sold must bring at least two-thirds of its appraised value.

Patrol Can't Find Quarters, May Move From Mansfield

Mansfield today faced the possibility of losing its state highway patrol station.

"It isn't that we want to leave the city," Lt. A. L. Bouton of the patrol's general staff in Columbus explained. "We just don't have any alternative if we fail to find quarters here."

It became imperative for the patrol to move from its present location in Coolridge Heights on U. S. Route 42 when the property was sold recently, and the new owner asked the patrol to vacate the premises. Lt. Bouton has spent the past two days in Mansfield, going from house to house searching for a suitable location.

"One of the principal requirements is that the station must be on one of the main routes going through Mansfield," he said.

Other needs, as outlined by Lt Bouton, were a normal sized front living room of a house, to be used as an office, a bedroom with two single beds, and a bath. Although the patrol would like to have garage facilities for two automobiles, it is not absolutely necessary, he said.

"If we don't locate a place here soon," he said, "we will have to move the station to one of the cities near Mansfield."

Lt. Bouton requested that if anyone had or knew of a site as described, he should call the Mansfield station of the highway patrol.

BURNS KILL BOY

CLEVELAND — (AP) — When John Staller, 9, and his brother, Matthew, 10, found a roll of discarded film in a vacant lot, John decided to see how fast it would burn, and applied a match. The flaring film ignited the boy's clothing and inflicted severe burns, causing his death in a hospital last night.

TOO BUSY NOW—

The housing shortage today resulted in postponement of a proposed state highway patrol-Mansfield police department shooting match. The patrolmen are being ousted from their present quarters on Ashland road. Because they are busy house-hunting they've asked that the match be postponed However, Police Chief Meade K. Bates, whose department is well-housed, has other ideas. "As far as I'm concerned, they're ducking us. They don't want to pit their guns against ours," he said, with a chuckle. Patrolmen at the sub-station still insist, however, that it's the housing shortage, and not their unwillingness to match shots with the local force, that caused them to seek a postponement.

BIG DAY FOR HIM—

Arthur Anderson, News-Journal reporter who at times covers city hall, the courthouse, and hospital, was awake early today. Almost before the news room opened, he had called from Greenfield, O., to announce the birth at 5:50 a. m. of a nine-pound fourounce son to his wife in the hospital at Greenfield. He'd driven the 150 miles in response to hurry call during the night. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson also have a daughter, 2. Art commutes to and from Greenfield once each week to see his family. A World War II veteran, he's been spending most of his off-hours in Mansfield since last February hunting a house to rent. Art insists he's still hopeful, although he says he does get a bit discouraged at times.

DOUBLE TROUBLE—

Damage to street asphalt and law suits by car owners were seen today by Fire Chief L. J. Steele as the possible results from burning leaves in city streets. He again warned residents about a city ordinance which prohibits burning leaves in anything but proper containers. The chief also pointed out that fires can damage street asphalt or "war torn autos with leaky gasoline tanks." He said that at least one insurance firm has threatened to file suit against property owners if cars insured by it are damaged by illegal leaf fires.

Seeks Release From City Jail

Charging that he is illegally held in city jail by Police Chief Meade K. Bates, Lester McClelland, 195 West Fourth street, today gained a common pleas court hearing on his application for a writ of habeas corpus.

The application was filed yesterday by Atty. C F. Creedman and the hearing was to be held before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch at 1 p. m. today.

McClelland was arrested by city police Tuesday on a West Virginia warrant charging non-support and abandonment of his wife, Ethel. Yesterday McClelland refused to waive his extradition rights. The common pleas court petition calls the West Virginia warrant, issued by a justice of the peace, a "pretended commitment."

FILM ACTORS WON'T HONOR PICKET LINES

Pittsburgh Power Dwindling, 1,000 Chicago Bus Drivers Cause Transit Tieup.

(By United Press)

The government stepped up the pressure today for settlement of both the nationwide shipping tie-up and the 10-day power strike at Pittsburgh.

Meanwhile, a work stoppage halted bus service at Chicago, as the Columbus, O., transportation tie-up and the Hollywood movie strike continued.

The major developments:

1. The government considered the strategy of seeking partial settlement of the shipping strike on the east and gulf coasts, leaving west coast issues to the last.

2. The sheriff's office at Pittsburgh was alerted for sabotage in the power strike after a 22,000-volt transmission line burned out, cutting power to two industrial suburbs.

3 Film stars at a mass meeting reaffirmed their intention to ignore honoring picket lines at seven major studios.

4. Bus service in Chicago was disrupted when 1,000 drivers and other employes quit work to attend a "continuous" union meeting, called in lieu of a strike.

In the shipping strike the two unions involved indicated willingness to consider a partial settlement of the east and gulf coasts.

West coast shipowners, however, firmly opposed union security demands made by the unions—the CIO Marine Engineers and the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots.

Consequently, government negotiators pushed for a settlement of wage issues in the hope of completing agreements covering east coast and gulf ports.

At San Francisco, meanwhile, negotiations between west coast waterfront employers and a third striking union—the CIO Longshoremen—were broken off. Major issues had been settled, however, and the chief point of dispute was over the unloading procedure for 16 steam schooners.

Federal Conciliator Nathan P. Feinsinger believed the relatively minor issue could be settled quickly after the nationwide maritime strike ends. The longshoremen are pleged to strike in sympathy with the marine engineers anyway.

Stars Meet.

At Hollywood, the largest turnout of stars in motion picture history voted overwhelmingly to ignore studio picket lines. If they had voted to respect the picket formations, the studios might have been forced into a settlement with strikers, because without the stars production would halt.

Negotiations in the Pittsburgh power walkout were kept strictly secret, but another session was scheduled today by a federal conciliator. Power continued at about 35 per cent of normal, and 70,000 workers in the Pittsburgh area remained idle as the result of shutdowns or sympathy walkouts.

The CIO Transport Workers union at Columbus placed 60 union-driven automobiles in service to carry passengers stranded by the union's streetcar and bus strike. The service was free. Another joint meeting between the union and the Southern Ohio Electric company was scheduled in an attempt to settle the strike.

At Chicago, bus drivers crowded a union hall in a night-long meeting designed to halt service until wage demands are met by the Chicago Motor Coach company. U. S Conciliator Walter Munro called an emergency meeting with officials of the company and the AFL Drivers' union.

Unique Football Coaching Setup

Bengal-Trojan Tilt Tops Schoolboy Card

By FRED THARP, News-Journal Sports Editor

Mansfield Senior high footballers embark on the suicide portion of their tough 1946 schedule when they meet the powerful Trojans of Portsmouth tomorrow night on the Ohio river city's gridiron.

The Tygers have got by Marion Harding, Cleveland East and Sandusky but must face Portsmouth, Springfield and Massillon on successive Friday nights. Coach Paul Snyder's crew walked over Harding, 33 to 13, and Sandusky, 55 to 2, and eked a 7-6 win over East.

Bruises sustained in the East game two-weeks ago are still bothering Ray Beard, varsity tackle, and he may not be able to play much against Portsmouth. However, Ralph Majors, who limped from the field in the Sandusky tilt, is all set for the Trojans.

Nick Gagich, second-string blocking back, will also be in uniform for the first time in two weeks.

The Portsmouth - Mansfield battle is ranked as the top schoolboy clash in the state this week. Coach Augie Morningstar's men of football are ranked third in the weekly Ohio INS poll while the Bengal horde moved from tenth to sixth by humbling the Blue Streaks.

Mansfield's 28-man varsity squad leaves for Portsmouth by bus tomorrow morning.

The Portsmouth club, with the advantage of playing on their home field, must be ranked as slight favorites over the Bengals. The Trojans have won three contests and Springfield was the only eleven to extend them. Springfield vaulted into a 14-0 lead at the half but Portsmouth scored three times in the last heat to win.

Dave Thomas, 190 pound veteran fullback, is the Portsmouth offensive star. His 92-yard runback of a punt started the Trojans on their victory march over Springfield. Thomas is playing his fourth year as a regular.

Other top Trojan performers are Walter Green, guard. Jim Molester, tackle and Bob Journey, back. Gib Clowe, junior back, is another offensive threat. He is an accurate left-handed passer and mighty tough to stop in the open field.

The Tyger booster club is sending the Mansfield Senior high band to Portsmouth tomorrow night.

Madison's Rams are given a good chance of getting back on the victory wagon tomorrow night when they invade Rittman in a Northeastern Buckeye league clash. Both aggregations have won one and lost two this season.

Coach Jeff DeHaven's squad opened with a convincing 31 to 13 victory over New London but developed a severe case of pass defense lethargy in losing to Oberlin, 13-12, and Orrville, 12-0. Rittman defeated Millersburg in a loop contest but dropped decisions to Medina and Orrville, 40-0.

Captain Jack Cleckner, tackle, and Ken Gabor, quarterback, who were injured in the Orrville battle, will be back in the starting lineup against Rittman. The Rams are concluding their week's drills with a light workout this afternoon.

Shelby and Bucyrus meet in the top Notrhern Ohio league contest tomorrow on the latter school's gridiron. The Whippets and Redmen have won two league encounters, apiece.

Coach Al Fendrick's outfit ran over Willard, 35-13, and scored two TD's in the last four minutes to defeat Galion, 14-0. Bucyrus bopped Norwalk, 12-8, and Willard, 19-13, in league tilts. Tomorrow's game will honor the Bucyrus football Dad's.

The defending championship Upper Sandusky team dropped out of a first place tie last week by dropping a 13-12 decision to Norwalk while Crestline won over Bellevue, 12-6

In addition to the Shelby-Bucyrus encounter, Bellevue goes to Willard, Upper Sandusky plays at Crestline and Norwalk travels to Galion for league tests.

Bellville meets Centerburg in the former team's annual homecoming game tomorrow at 3 p. m.

Mt. Gilead crashed the win column for the first time last week and will be after another scalp at Sandusky Friday. Bob Blose's Indians defeated Danville, 32-18, last Friday after dropping decisions to Crestline and Carey.

In other area tilts, Ashland high school plays at Sandusky, Danville goes to Loudonville and Medina invades New London. Loudonville handed New London its third straight defeat last week, 20-13, and Ashland rolled over Tiffin Columbian, 33-7.

Iowa, Wolves In Big Nine Limelight

CHICAGO — (AP) — Iowa and Michigan, each with a Big Nine conference victory and no losses, steal the midwestern football spotlight this weekend at Ann Arbor where they clash in one of four league games.

Conference battles Saturday pit Purdue against Illinois at Champaign; Wisconsin and Northwestern at Evanston; and Indiana against Minnesota at Minneapolis. In a non-league contest, Ohio State meets Southern California at Los Angeles.

The Hawkeyes concentrated yesterday on pass defense against Michigan's aerial attack, while on the offensive side Halfbacks Bob Smith and Emlen Tunnell collaborated for long gains.

Around other big nine camps:

Illinois — Tackles Mike Kasap and Bill Franks, moved up from the third team to the first string as the Illini drilled for Purdue. Ray Florek replaced Russ Steger at fullback. Steger was sidelined by injuries as was End Ike Owens.

Purdue — Jack Forestieri, a freshman from Benton Harbor, Mich., was added to the squad as an end candidate as the Boilermakers worked on a defense to stop Illinois' fleet Buddy Young.

Minnesota—The Gophers worked to perfect their passing attack while also emphasizing defensive tactics against an expected aerial attack from Indiana. Biggest problem for Coach Bernie Bierman appeared to be filling the niches caused by injuries suffered by Guard Chuck Dellago and End Tom Cates in last Saturday's Nebraska game.

Wisconsin — The Badgers went through another stiff drill against Northwestern's aerial game which proved so effective in the Wildcats' 41 to 9 victory over Iowa State. Russ Schults, injured fullback, rejoined the squad, but Jim Embach was declared out for the season with a broken ankle.

Northwestern — Halfback Dick Conners and End Don Farrell, two of Coach Lynn Waldorf's injured Wildcats, rejoined the squad yesterday and will be ready to play against Wisconsin.

Officials Appoint Exec Committee

An executive committee, which will draw up the constitution and by-laws, was appointed at the second meeting of the North Central Ohio Officials and Coaches association last night at Mansfield Senior high school.

Members of the committee are George Donges, NCO president and Ashland college athletic director; Orville Kibler, vice president and Bellville coach, Vere Smith, secretary-treasurer; Alex Kish, Bucyrus; C E. Taylor, Ashland high school mentor, and Hayden Fouts, Sandusky.

Basketball interpretation meeting has been scheduled for Monday night, Nov. 18, 1946, at Senior high school The group has 45 charter members.

Horvath Tops Tyger Scorers

According to records released today, Kenny Horvath, pile-driving Mansfield Senior high fullback, leads the Tyger grid squad in scoring and rushing.

Horvath went into paydirt four times in the Marion Harding game and twice against Sandusky to run his total to 36 points. Ralph majors, who has scored a TD in each of the three 1946 games, and sprinter Bill McKee are tied for second with 18 points, apiece.

Big Ross Frisbee has connected for ten extra-points and counted one touchdown for a 16-point total.

Horvath has carted the pigskin 37 times for 310 yards, an average of 8.4 a carry. His longest run was a 40-yard blast for a TD in the Sandusky game. McKee is second in the rushing division with 194 yards in 20 tries.

California Here We Come; Buck Gridders Fly to LA

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Practice for the Ohio State football team today was scheduled at Albuquerque, New Mexico, where the Bucks are to stop overnight on their plane trip to Los Angeles for Saturday's game with the University of Southern California.

Coach Paul Bixler held his final home drill yesterday before the Trojan game, stressing offensive plays which hadn't been run since last spring, but which he thought would be useful in overcoming a decided weight advantage held by the Southern California line.

All of Bixler's regulars, with one exception, were named to make the California trip. Left Guard Bob Jabbusch was called to Elyria yesterday because of the death of his father.

Here's their pre-game itinerary:

Thursday—7:30 a. m.—leave Columbus; noon — lunch in Tulsa, Okla.; 3:30 p. m. arrive in Albuquerque; 4:30—practice at University of New Mexico field; 10 p. m. turn in for night at Kirtland army air field.

Friday—8:30 a. m.—leave Albuquerque; 11:30 a. m.—arrive Los Angeles; 2:30 p. m.—practice at Los Angeles coliseum; 2:30 p. m.—kick-off.

Bill Doolittle, quarterback, and Dave Templeton, guard, former Mansfield high stars, are included in the 36-man squad making the trip.

Bellville After Second Victory

Bellville's Bluejays will be after their second consecutive victory against Centerburg Friday afternoon in Bellville's annual homecoming game at 3 o'clock. Last season Centerburg beat the Bluejays 15 to 7.

Coach Orville Kibler has six returning 1945 lettermen and two ex-servicemen on his squad. Don Walker, Dave Worner, Jim Eyster, Ross Wade, Chester Weaver and Floyd Roston are the monogram winners, while Homer Walker and Jim Showdecker are the returning GI's.

However, Showdecker and Jim Gleeson, back, will be on the sidelines suffering from injuries received earlier this season. H. Walker, and D. Walker will do most of the pigskin running and passing.

The high school band will march from downtown to the field at which time Vera Bell, the homecoming queen, will be crowned. Her attendants will be Norma Jean Walker, senior, LaDonna Lenhardt, junior, Shirley Shrader, sophomore, and Kathern Naus, freshman.

Bellville lost its opener, 21 to 6, to the Mansfield sophomores, tied Fredericktown, and defeated Utica, 20 to 0, last Friday.

Shift J-V Game

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A junior varsity game between Ohio State and University of Pittsburgh teams has been shifted from Pittsburgh to the Buckeyes' stadium here for Saturday because of a Pittsburgh hotel strike.

Browns Must Watch Dobbs

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The Cleveland Browns headed the All-America pro football conference in pass defense today but the league leading club entertained no illusions about resting on their laurels Sunday against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Brooklyn's aerial artist, Glenn Dobbs, the former Tulsa star, has completed exactly half the passes he has thrown and boasts the lowest interception average in the league, .015.

At stake in the contest to be played in Cleveland Municipal stadium will be the Browns' untied, undefeated record. The only team ever to lead the Browns was Brooklyn in an exhibition contest in the Akron rubber bowl. The Browns came from behind to overwhelm the Dodgers.

If the Browns have a tough time stopping Dobbs, the Dodgers will find at least one Cleveland back hard to bottle up. Marion Motley, the big fullback from Canton, has averaged 7.70 yards in 33 tries for a rushing gain of 254 yards.

Lou "The Toe" Groza, Cleveland's scoring tackle, leads the league in that department with 32 points.

Coach Orville Kibler has six returning 1945 lettermen and two ex-servicemen on his squad. Don Walker, Dave Worner, Jim Eyster, Ross Wade, Chester Weaver and Floyd Roston are the monogram winners, while Homer Walker and Jim Showdecker are the returning GI's.

LIPPY LEO'S BOYS GET LAST CHANCE

BROOKLYN—(AP)—Leo Durocher's ability to rally his sagging Dodgers from the brink of disaster meets its big test today when Brooklyn resumes its post-season playoff series with St. Louis knowing full well that the National league pennant and world series cash will vanish in defeat.

Back at Ebbets field where they have compiled an amazing record of 56 wins and 21 defeats for a .727 percentage, the Brooks are inclined to overlook the 4-2 defeat hung around their necks by Howie Pollet in St. Louis Tuesday.

Durocher will start Joe Hatten the rookie lefthander who came out of service to win 14 and lose 10 in his freshman year.

Arriving in New York last night a few minutes behind the Dodgers are a 22-hour train trip, Eddie Dyer's Redbirds were a confident ball club.

Dyer, on the hot spot all season when his star-loaded Cards failed to play up to their prewar form, was in the enviable position of having a second guess on his pitching selection. If he made the wrong pick today he still could save his skin tomorrow in the third game.

Murry Dickson, a wiry little righthander from Tracy, Mo., was the choice over Harry (The Cat) Brecheen. Dickson has been effective against the Dodgers, beating them three times and losing only once on relief.

Dyer planned to continue his lineup switches if Durocher uses a lefthander.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The opening game of the World Series, delayed by photo finish of St. Louis and Brooklyn in the National league, today was set for Sunday, Oct. 6, in the park of the National league pennant winner.

This was announced yesterday by the office of Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Ivan and Ali Top Mat Card

Promoter Earl Myers has something different lined up for tonight's weekly grunt and groan show at the Armory.

Ivan Rasputin, the mad-Russian, and Ali Aliba, the Turk terror, and their curly whiskers meet in the main go. They tangle in the best-two-out-of-three-falls, 90 minute time limit.

Rasputin sports a full-beard while Aliba goes along with a long mustache, handle-bar variety.

In the preliminary match Myers has signed Stocky Knielson, Tennessee ruffian to meet the singing cowboy, Ace Abbott. It is rumored that Abbott will serenade with his guitar before the prelim at 8:15.

University of Michigan's 1946 starting line-up averages 181.3 pounds.

Sinkwich's Trick Knee Again Okay

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Frankie Sinkwich, former Georgia All-American backfielder now with the New York football Yankees, has recovered from a knee operation and will rejoin the team immediately, the Yankee office announced today.

Sinkwich has been examined by Dr. Robert F. Hyland, famed baseball surgeon who operated on the footballer, and has been given the go-ahead.

It is possible that the Youngstown, O., star will see action for the Yankees against the Bisons at Buffalo tomorrow night. If not, he's a certain starter against the high-riding Cleveland Browns at New York Oct. 12.

Somebody Else Is Now Carrying Their Clubs

FORT WORTH, Tex. — (U.P.) — Somebody else was carrying the clubs, but aside from that it was a flashback to their youth today as Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson teed off as favorites in the opening round of the $10,000 Fort Worth Open.

The hometown smart money was on Hogan and Nelson to finish one-two in the Fort Worth Open, probably in that order, as the final putt drops Sunday at the end of 72 holes of play.

LIL' BLUE

Alas, that it should have to be
So few will truly learn to see.
—Old Mother Nature

At the edge of the water on the shore of the Smiling Pool stood a white Heron watching for a fish or a frog to come within reach. On the bank near him was Ol' Mistah Buzzard. Hidden under some ferns near enough for him to overhear them as they talked was Peter Rabbit. It isn't nice to eavesdrop, which means listen to others when they don't know you are listening. That is what Peter was doing. He was doing it without thinking What a lot of things are done without thinking

"I was sure that there is only one Heron in white and that is Cousin Egret, but I must be mistaken and this is some one else I believe I'll hop out and ask If he won't tell me his name perhaps O' Mistah Buzzard will," thought Peter.

But he didn't hop out just then. Coming from the direction of the Big River was a great white bird. At the Smiling Pool he dropped long legs and straightened a long neck. As he stood stretched to his full height Peter recognized Cousin Egret whom he had met over on the shore of the Big River the the day before.

Seeing them together Peter at once noticed the difference in size of the two cousins in white Cousin Egret was much the bigger, very near the size of Longlegs the Great Blue Heron, while the other was nearer the size of Quawk the Night Heron, but slimmer. Remembering what he had overheard said about a difference in bills Peter looked at Cousin Egret's. It was yellow. The other's was black.

"What an easy way of telling them apart," thought Peter. "Now if and when I see one of them alone I'll just look at his bill and know which he is. I wish I knew that other's name."

Now wishes sometimes do come true. Peter's did. Hardly had he wished when Cousin Egret spoke. "Hello, Lil' Blue," said he. "Ah haven't see you'since sho'tly after weuns started out from the Sunny South together."

"Little Blue," said Peter to himself. "What a funny name, if that is his name. Little Blue. It doesn't make sense Now if he was called Little White it would. I think I'll go out and ask him if that really is his name."

Just then the two cousins in white lifted their great wings and with long legs straight out behind them flew off toward the Big River, leaving Ol' Mistah Buzzard behind on the bank Hurriedly Peter hopped out from under the ferns.

"If you please, Mr. Buzzard, is that really his name?" asked Peter.

"Hello, Brer Rabbit! Is what really whose name?" replied the big black bird with the bald red head

'Is Little Blue the name of the Egret's white cousin?" asked Peter.

'Is Little Blue the name of Egret's white cousin?' asked Peter

Mistah Buzzard nodded. "It sho' is," said he

"But he is all white!" cried Peter.

Again Ol' Mistah Buzzard nodded "He is now,' he agreed.

'What do you mean by now?" Peter wanted to know.

"Lil' Blue gwine change his coat by and by," explained Ol' Mistah Buzzard.

'Won't it be white then?" asked Peter.

"No," said Peter's bald acquaintance "No, Ah reckon not. He wears white only the first year

"Then does he wear blue?" Peter popped the question almost before Ol' Mistah Buzzard had stopped speaking.

"Sort of bluish, something like the coat of Longlegs the Great Blue Heron whom you know. I guess that's why they call him Lil' Blue Anyway that's his name," explained Ol' Mistah Buzzard.

"But the children of Longlegs don't wear white, so why should Little Blue?" cried Peter.

"Don' yo' ask me any mo' foolish questions Ah can't answer," protested Ol' Mistah Buzzard.

The next story: "Snapper the Great."

Plan Formation Of New 'Y' Group

A decision on renaming the YMCA Phalanx club and turning its charter over to a newly-organized younger group will be made at the next Phalanx meeting, it was announced today

In order to adhere to the original purpose of the Phalanx, which is a "Y" fraternity for younger men, the present members, most of whom are veterans of World War II feel that reorganization is necessary, a spokesman said.

Asserts Men Waste Most Capabilities

The average man only uses five per cent of his capabilities and wastes the other 95 per cent, Optimist club members and guest were told yesterday at their noonday meeting in the Mansfield-Leland hotel

Robert Alander, general manager of the News-Journal, offered a formula for overcoming the waste

"A man must develop his wasted capabilities by finding out what is wrong with himself by asking his best friends to tell him frankly his faults and not believing compliments," he said. "Then he must take action to improve his shortcomings."

Barclay on Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

NO TRUMP is not a good declaration for the bad misfit. Possession of the top cards of every suit cannot produce a game at that contract unless one of the suits will break effectively, either through a good division of cards in the hand of the defense or else through having some of the intermediate honors. When the drop is from high cards to really low cards, even as many as seven sure tricks in aces and kings cannot produce the nine needed for the No Trump game.

There is no such thing as a good way to bid a real misfit hand By the time you know all about how bad the misfit is, you are too high to get down where you are in a contract that can be made But there is such a thing as foreseeing the likelihood of a misfit and providing against it.

The bidding shown in Table 1 above is the kind done at most tables of a big duplicate. North was so dazzled by his four high card tricks opposite an opening bid that he told the whole story about them at once with his 3-Clubs. That in Table 2 was done by the more expert pairs, with whom a new suit opposite a dealer opening is a positive one-time force, and so is a "reverse" bid like North's second call, of his higher-ranking spades

Even the more conservative chaps got into something unmakable, at 4-Hearts, but mainly because that suit was bunched with West. In deals like this, usually the least costly contract is in the suit which is nearest to a fit.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennett Cerf

One of the snappiest beginnings to a story I remember was one dashed off by Stephen Leacock in a parody of Horatio Alger. The story began—

"'How about a job?'

"The man on the ladder, building a house, looked down at the manly little fellow who piped up with this question Something in the lad's intelligent eyes and straightforward mien appealed to the man. He threw a brick at him."

* * *

A small stockholder in a great corporation felt that he had been unjustly treated in a new stock issue, and registered his complaint with the head of the outfit. "You are absolutely right," admitted that gentleman, "but I beg you not to press the point Thousands of other stockholders would make equal demands, and you'd upset the whole applecart."

"You remind me of my older brother when we both were kids," said the complainant wryly. "Every night after we had been put to bed he'd start beating my brains out. The minute I started to bawl he'd whisper, 'Ss-s-sh! You'll wake mama.'"

20,000 Are Expected at Closing Day of Loudonville Street Fair

RECORD CROWDS THRONG 3-DAY ANNUAL EVENT

Free Hourly Acts, 12 Rides, 60 Concessionaries Are Featured.

LOUDONVILLE — Loudonville's famed street fair cast eyes today on a final attendance figure approaching 50,000.

Fair officials forecast a throng of possibly 20,000 for the closing day activities.

They said more than 10,000 persons attended Tuesday, the opening day, and 15,000 yesterday.

Blacked-out by the war years, the annual street fair returned this year with all of its pre-war flavor and many new attractions added under the direction of the Loudonville Agricultural Society.

An estimated 60 concessionaires are participating, with 12 rides being operated by the Gooding Shows under the management of Randolph Andrews, of Loudonville.

Unusual displays include those of Charles Maple, of Kent, the glass blower; Dick Dillon's mechanical village, and an exhibition of 17 working model trains carved by Ernest Warther, of Dover.

Brought from Belgium where it was carved by three disabled World War I veterans from France, Sweden and Belgium, Dillon's display was recently featured in Popular Mechanic's magazine. It consists of 30,000 working parts, and presents 30 scenes with over 150 characters.

Other features of the varied program are free acts every hour at the Main and Spring street platform, band concerts and an amateur show. The Shreve high school band plays today from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., when musicians from Madison high school take over to play until 10 p. m.

Today's schedule of free acts features:

Amateur show, 12:30 p. m.; Don Platino on the tight wire, 1:15 and 7:45 p. m.; Barnyard Frolics, 2 and 6:30 p. m.; Mary and Jerry's skating act, 2:45 and 9:15 p. m.; Bicycle act, 3:30 and 8:30 p. m.; Roping act, 4:15 and 7:15 p. m., and the High pole act, 5 and 10 p. m.

Displays of fruits and vegetables, the best of the season's harvest, vie with tents filled with prize stock and poultry to prove the productiveness of southern Ashland county. A total of 110 entries was reported in the senior fair.

On Market street the Junior Fair and stock displays drew a large crowd, with a section of Water street featuring displays of poultry, farm products, and farm machinery. The poultry show had over 600 entries.

In addition to regular concessions booths offering hot dogs, sugar waffles, snow candy, soft drinks, and coffee, several Loudonville organizations are sponsoring snack bars. They include: the American Legion, Eagles auxiliary, Hanover grange and a special booth under the management of the Smithville Inn.

Officers of the fair are: Dr. F. M. Smalley, president; W. E. Heichel, vice president; J. Olin Arnholt, treasurer; Charles Bernard, jr., secretary, and Mrs. Bernard, assistant secretary.

Howard Arnholt, Rex Long, W. G. Messner, W. W. Strang, Floyd McClure and Carl Koch are the fair directors.

In charge of the various fair departments are: Michael Strang, stock; Dr. F. M. Smalley, poultry; W. G. Messner, farm products; Mrs. Earl Conrad, floral hall; R. F. McMullen, secretary of junior fair; Mrs. Nelson Beem, assistant to McMullen; Nelson Beem, farm shop and FFA livestock exhibits; Noel Shaffer, school exhibits; Miss Gibben, home economics; Forest Swang, industrial arts; Mary Jayne Grierson, and N. H. Shilliday, 4-H club work.

Vet's Housing Plan Pondered At Ashland

ASHLAND—Disposition of the $25,871.46 granted Ashland county as its share of the state's appropriation for veterans housing, has been placed by Ashland county commissioners in the hands of an advisory board headed by Howard S. Lutz, Ashland attorney and representative of the local post of the American Legion.

The advisory group officers include Carl E. Koppler, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, secretary, and Charles R. Mosher, of the Loudonville Legion post, vice chairman.

The board will recommend the type of housing to be provided and a plan for dividing units between Ashland and Loudonville. County Auditor Ivan Eshleman has suggested that the funds be allotted according to population.

Meeting with county commissioners, the advisory board and other interested persons discussed the possibility of prefabricated houses.

Fred Sigafoos, Jeromesville lumber dealer, declared housing is being retarded over the nation for lack of glass and nails as well as lumber. Eight thousand homes in Ohio are being held up for lack of window glass, he said. "Priorities don't mean a thing," he said. "You can't build a house with priorities alone. You still need lumber, plass and nails."

4 Pay Illegal Hunting Fines

MILLERSBURG — Four game violation arrests were made by Holmes County Conservation Officer Errett Allison and Constable W. C. Swaggard. Harry Simon, 35, and Roy Kemp, 32, Dalton, R. D. 2, paid fines of $10 and costs assessed by Justice William G. Close for hunting upon the farm of Walter Aultman without his permission.

William Doll, 24, and his brother, Veryl Doll, 28, both of Massillon were each fined $10 and costs by Justice E. M. Cox after they plead guilty to hunting upon land without the owner's permission. They were arrested on an affidavit filed by Rudy Vender, Walnut Creek township.

BID FOR WATER TOWER QUERIED

Erection Held Up Pending Council's Approval.

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus city council at its meeting Tuesday night questioned the figure in the bid for construction of the contemplated city water tower and offered for comparison a bid for a similar job at Delphos. Council quoted a figure $22,060 under that bid here. Both bids were offered by the same firm, the Pittsburgh Des Moines Construction company.

Bid for the Bucyrus job was $77,460. Specifications called for tanks of the same capacity, 500,000 gallons. Both bids were considered during September.

Meanwhile the contract let two weeks ago by the board of control for construction of the tower here is being held up until approval of city council is given. Mayor R. L. Hertzer defended the action in awarding the contract on the grounds that "the specifications were different."

Council also heard recommendations from Safety Director John Carroll for a revamping of the police department, to include two lieutenants, which would insure a person in charge of the department at all hours. The position of captain, abandoned when Patrolman Wilbur Kennedy left the force two years ago, will not be refilled under the proposed plan. The new set-up would include a chief, one identification officer, two lieutenants, one patrolman for parking meters and seven regular patrolmen.

Other business considered by council was the installation of three additional traffic lights on Sandusky avenue at Rensselaer, Warren and Charles streets. Two more lights ordered recently for East Mansfield and Walnut and Lane streets, have arrived and are to be installed soon, council was advised.

Threat Brings Divorce Action

MILLERSBURG — Charging that her husband, Charles J. Molessa, 174 Ira avenue, Akron, has threatened her with bodily harm and had attempted to take their infant son by force, Mrs. Mary L. Molessa, of Millersburg, has petitioned for a divorce.

Mrs. Molessa said they jointly own a residence in Akron; that the defendant has a 1940 DeSota automobile, and that he had spent $750 they had in the bank without her consent. She seeks custody and support for the child, and alimony for herself.

Price Urges Local Unity

NEW YORK—(AP)—Interdependence of nations and individuals is the world's only hope of real prosperity and contentment Gwilym A Price president of Westinghouse Electric corporation told guests at a George Westinghouse centennial luncheon here yesterday

But unity on a local level between management and employe is just as essential as between nations Mr Price declared

'Surely we can deal effectively with the men and women of our own kind who speak the same language have the single birthright and the same basic traditions and share a common economic interest with us If we cannot bow even a little to Mr Molotov for not getting along with Mr Bevin or Mr Byrnes for not winning Mr Molotov to his way of thinking?

YMCA Has Provided Some Big Thrills for Jimmy Thompson

(Editor's Note: Here's another in a series of interviews concerning the agencies which are benefitted by the Mansfield Community Fund.)

* * *

JIMMY THOMPSON

Jimmy Thompson, 10, is a young man of few words, but he knows why he likes the Mansfield YMCA.

"It's fun!" he says.

The fifth grader at Carpenter, who won second prize in the "Y" All-American Boy contest last year, has been on the "Y" roster for two years now.

"I learned to swim at the 'Y' when I was eight," Jimmy said. His brown eyes twinkled as he added, "I got the Shark emblem this summer."

The "Shark emblem," given for advancement in water sports, is next highest to the life saving badge.

Jimmy's found that there are also lots of fine surprises at the YMCA Camp Nelson Dodd, which he attended for the first time this summer.

"Gee, we did lots of things I never did before—especially canoeing," the little fellow went on.

"I think I'd like to join the Rifle club and do some boxing and wrestling at the 'Y' when I get a little older," he concluded with an eye to the future.

Jimmy, who has great hopes of becoming a "flier" when he grows up, is the son of Mr and Mrs. Keith Thompson, 237 West Third street.

N. FAIRFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cherry of Berkeley, Cal., arrived Thursday, at the home of their brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cherry, for an extended visit with the Cherry family, and other friends and relatives.

Mrs. Robert Whitright and son, of Cleveland, were week-end guests of Robert L. Whitright and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Whitright.

HALSEY URGES MOBILE NAVY

Tells Legionnares It Must Be Ready For A-Bomb War.

SAN FRANCISCO —(INS)— Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey yesterday called for a powerful, speedy and highly mobile navy to carry out an atomic counter-attack should this nation ever be involved in push button warfare.

The famed commander of the U. S. Third fleet which blasted Japan's vaunted navy out of the Pacific, was among the headline speakers before the national American Legion convention, now in its third day at San Francisco.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, added to the militant tone of the convention by calling for universal military training geared to furnish manpower for a national guard of 650,000 "minute men."

Hershey brushed aside predictions that atomic, push-button warfare will demand a smaller army, navy and air force, declaring:

"We cannot and dare not ignore the conclusion that to be safe in the future we must train everyone to know what to do to survive."
